BARNARD COLLEGE
ARCHIVES

FRANK DIEHL FACKENTHAL

Acting President, Columbia University

A.B., Columbia University; Litt.D.,
Franklin and Marshall College; LL.D., Franklin and Marshall College.

VIRGINIA CROCHERON GILDERSLEEVE

Dean, Barnard College

A.B., Barnard College; A.M., Columbia University; Ph.D., Columbia University; LL.D., Rutgers College; Litt.D., Phi Beta Kappa; Kappa Kappa Gamma.

To Virginia
Crocheron Gildersleere,
who, through her inspiration
and active assistance, has helped us, her students, attain that "general education of mind, body and character" for which she has stood as Dean of Barnard College. We shall ever remember the ideals she has set for us--those challenging ideals which are the goals of our liberal education: preparation for citizenship, for recreation and for human relationships.
We strive to achieve these, knowing that in the achievement of them we shall be fulfilling her further ideal, acquiring a "foundation for our work in the world", a preparation for "whatever life the future may bring".

Presenting
the scholastic--first of Barnard's three "worlds". We make this world as we want it: elect our own officials, legislate through Rep Assembly, voice opinions in our own press. We work for clubs, are rewarded with bear pins and offices. We suffer through term papers and exams, make dole-ful visits to the morgue, and--new note in the academic life--wait in queues at the book store. But we find satisfaction in good hard work -- in and out of class. Life in our academic world is challenging but fun.

Undergraduate Association Officers: Mable Brown, Virginia Haggerty, Mary Harry, Carol Johns, Helen Trevor.

Undergrad President at home.

Undergraduate Officers

Barnard's own "Big Five"—who work together to administrate student affairs. They state our views—officially; spend our student activity fees—wisely; and, perhaps, send us a note for missing a Rep Assembly meeting—we hope rarely! They are the elected officers in our academic "world of women", and in this capacity they help make this world, at Barnard, the way the students want it.

Student Council

An impressive body with impressive functions—coordinative, policy-making, administrative. Still, the student council does things big and little—from authorizing the use of Barnard's name to support a political view, to allowing an addition of twenty-five cents to the subscription price for Harvest Hop! It is they who keep the faculty and students in sweet accord; they who uphold the name of Barnard outside the green fence.

STUDENT COUNCIL:
Standing: Betty Green, Beverly McGraw, Vicky Thompson, Lois Boochever, Ruth Raup. Seated: Mary Harry, Evi Bossanyi, Virginia Haggerty, Carol Johns, Helen Trevor, Mable Brown.

*Representative Assembly
Filibustering not allowed in this congress!*

BRING your friends and eat your lunch, but come to Rep Assembly at noon on Mondays. Room 408 Barnard is the scene of spirited talk and good-natured debate as students discuss stands and legislate on issues for the college.

Superimposed on the life of the college is the special phase of it including one-third of us—dorm life. This is administered by the Residence Halls Executive Committee, affectionately titled “Exee” by those on whom it occasionally imposes the dread penalty of “campnsing.”

Barnard College

On entering Barnard College you come automatically under its Honor System—a system which has been conceived and developed by the students, and is administered by them through the Undergraduate

SENIOR PROCTORS—those harassed people who protect Milbank Hall from conflagration, ("Put out that cigarette!"), the undergraduate treasury from lack of funds, (Please submit a fifty cent fine to Audrey Cox, Chairman, Court of Senior Proctors!), and the student body in general from violations of the rules. The judiciary of our student government,—these are the black-robed figures who mark off the fearful half-hours each January and May—symbols, so to speak, of our greatest source of pride, the Honor Code, administered by the Honor Board. Our pride in upholding the spirit of the code—"honesty and honor for its own sake"—is seldom dampened, even by viewing the results of our honesty—and usually ignorance—in the Morgue.

offender privately in an effort to bring her into conformity with the college standard, and to take whatever action shall seem best to fulfill her duty to maintain and further a spirit of honesty in our college life.

Honor Board: Ann de Kay, Virginia Haggerty, Chairman, Nancy Cameron, Eleanor Lee Lyman, Elizabeth Lowe, Jewel Feukes, Elaine Ryan.

What, so cheerful?

"Through the storms of time abide . . . Columbia's atmosphere and traditions are often hard to put a finger on, but with association they grow upon us . . . The things that center around Low Library steps . . . hurdy-gurdies and pigeons in spring . . . Freshmen term papers in South Hall . . . the sadly-cracked sundial—(we learned in geology that it was going to crack soon!) . . . the tiny owl of wisdom in Alma Mater's skirts. Small things such as these are close to us, as are the big traditions—the impressive academic procession . . . commencement exercises on the library steps. All are part of our feeling of possessiveness, affection and loyalty for our alma mater.

Bear Pin Awards

Bear Pins — Barnard's laurels to its cosmopolite characters who can enter successfully into any and all its three worlds, and then successfully make their mark there. Those indefatigable spirits who never have enough of academic, social and athletic extra-curric.

ELIGIBILITY COMMITTEE

Barnard has its point system, too—not for meat or sugar, but for extra-curric. And Eligibility Committee helps us to S-TR-ETCH the points allotted to us. Known especially to all those eager freshmen who try to do too much too soon, Eligibility Committee members will also check on the qualifications of all potential Bear Pin winners: they will listen to our fervent plea to “please let me carry that extra office”: but they will also often suggest—pointedly—that we forego two of our three offices until we raise a 2.0 academic average!. They will seem, perhaps, to be an avenging nemesis to students on probation: they will decide that Wigs and Cues players are worth an extra eligibility point. And if we manage, by some skilful juggling of points, to get sanction from the Committee for our slightly phenomenal amount of extra-curric—why, then we are on our way to winning a coveted Bear Pin!

Eligibility Committee: Jane Gordon, Dolores Sheldon, Mabelle Giddings, Georgia Rubin, Doris Soltis, Virginia Kanick, Pearl Stern.

The Mortarboard

Here we are, the Mortarboard staff, in the whirl of creating on paper your three worlds—and in a happy, but hectic, world of our own, where time is measured not by days, but by deadlines, and where the passport to success is another pledged subscription blank.

Mrs. McIntosh To Meet With Students, Faculty

Mrs. Millicent Carey McIntosh, Barnard's recently appointed Dean-elect, will be present at three college functions during the next term.

A reception for the faculty will be held Wednesday, January 8, from 4 to 4:30 in Brooks Hall to introduce Mrs. McIntosh.

At the first required all-college assembly of the next term, to be held Tuesday, February 10, Mrs. McIntosh will speak to the student body of the college.

Student Council is making plans for a buffet luncheon to be held Friday, January 17, in the Conference Room. The Dean-elect will be with Council members and guests. The purpose of the luncheon is to introduce Mrs. McIntosh to the students and explain her plans.

Be it Elizabethan, contemporary Spanish or classical Greek drama, Wigs and Cues is always “good theatre.”

Debate Council: Outlet for opinions on issues of the day.

Political Council Meeting, Even Study.

Political Life

Barnard is a microcosm of a larger world in many ways—and not the least of these is through politics. Emphasized increasingly since the war, the “political scene” on our college campus, as in the world at large, this year stresses equally the domestic and the foreign fields, with clubs representing both interests.

And, again the microcosm. Barnard has had its own political upheavals—amalgamation of Action for Democracy with Liberal Club, as well as an independent assertion of conservative opinion. Real training for politics here!

Liberal Club officers “in conference.”

International Relations Club mulling over problems of world importance.

Test-tubes, triangles and tissues comprise the world of natural sciences.

Science Club

Math Club

Pre-Med Club

Extra-curricular lounging

Community Service — newly-emphasized this year, and rejuvenated by an enthusiastic committee.

Rose Ceremony.

Graduation

Festive yet solemn, excited yet dignified, we look forward eagerly to new beginnings, look back sadly on a life now ended—graduation is essentially this, a series of paradoxes. As we engage in Senior Week activities—receive our single rose, token of Barnard's affection for us, plant our ivy, token of our remembrance of Barnard, and as we participate in the ceremonies of graduation—attend baccalaureate services, walk in the academic procession, prepare to accept our degree—we know we are passing from our own "world of women" to another bigger, more challenging world—we know we are "commencing".

*Planting the ivy.
May it grow tall!*

*Baccalaureate Services:
The "be-all and the end-all here."*

Vocational Committee

The World Beyond

"Tomorrow's the future still, this is today." . . . But step-singing echoes soon die away, tomorrow all too quickly becomes today, and today means—the new job! Vocational Committee has helped us throughout college by providing speakers, holding meetings and discussions, gathering information in relation to our particular career interests—whether we wanted to act, teach, write, draw, sing, psychoanalyze or legislate. Now, with our A.B. secured, we knock at the door of the world, ready to enter and learn "the rest of the alphabet" in a world of experience. Miss Doty, who has previously supplied baby and tutoring jobs, as well as summer employment, even as we go forth from our microcosmic world into the real one, does not desert us, but points out possible permanent opportunities for our talents. And the cumulative effect of our years at Barnard is such that we know we have fulfilled the Dean's ideal: we know we are equipped for our work in the world, ready for "whatever life the future may bring." And it is a good feeling, and a proud one.

*Occupation Bureau:
Students' entrance to the "world beyond."*

A world of sports--here our life is
as variegated and interesting
as the academic, for Barnard's athletic world includes an abundance of activities--some of them prescribed,
some voluntary. Yet we like them all... the required gym classes, (even tenikoit on the roof at four or conditioning exercises!)
...the "between-hours" skating parties and tennis matches...the Health Committee posture contests, "to correct that slump", and cinnamon bun bars...and Greek Games, where we display our best skills. Our athletic world teaches us, too, the very real value of the Dean's ideal.
recreation for our future life.

Athletic Association Board

Athletic Association

"A.A. says"—join in the fun of the athletic life! And we do, for there is a "game for every girl" with tournaments in Archery to Volleyball, folk dance parties, play days, water carnivals, camp. Athletic Association has its more notorious aspects, too an—almost—real cow that served three kinds of milk on Jake! This central administrative body of Barnard's sports world even adds to our social life, with its teas, A.A. banquet and especially Harvest Hop. An enthusiastic board whose vivacity makes Barnard enthuse with them.

Center right: Hockey — our newest sport.

Bottom right: For those guided, not by skill levels, but by free hours.

Camp diversion, outdoor style

A deck of cards, a fire of logs, and thou—

Chicken comes to the one who waits

The fine art of barbecuing

Camp

Delicious fried chicken in the midst of a meat shortage was not the only high-light of Fall Barbecue—glorious autumn weather, a chance for many freshmen to see Barnard Camp for the first time, hikes to Dream Lake, and a desperate search on the scavenger hunt for a mysterious bird house all added to the fun.

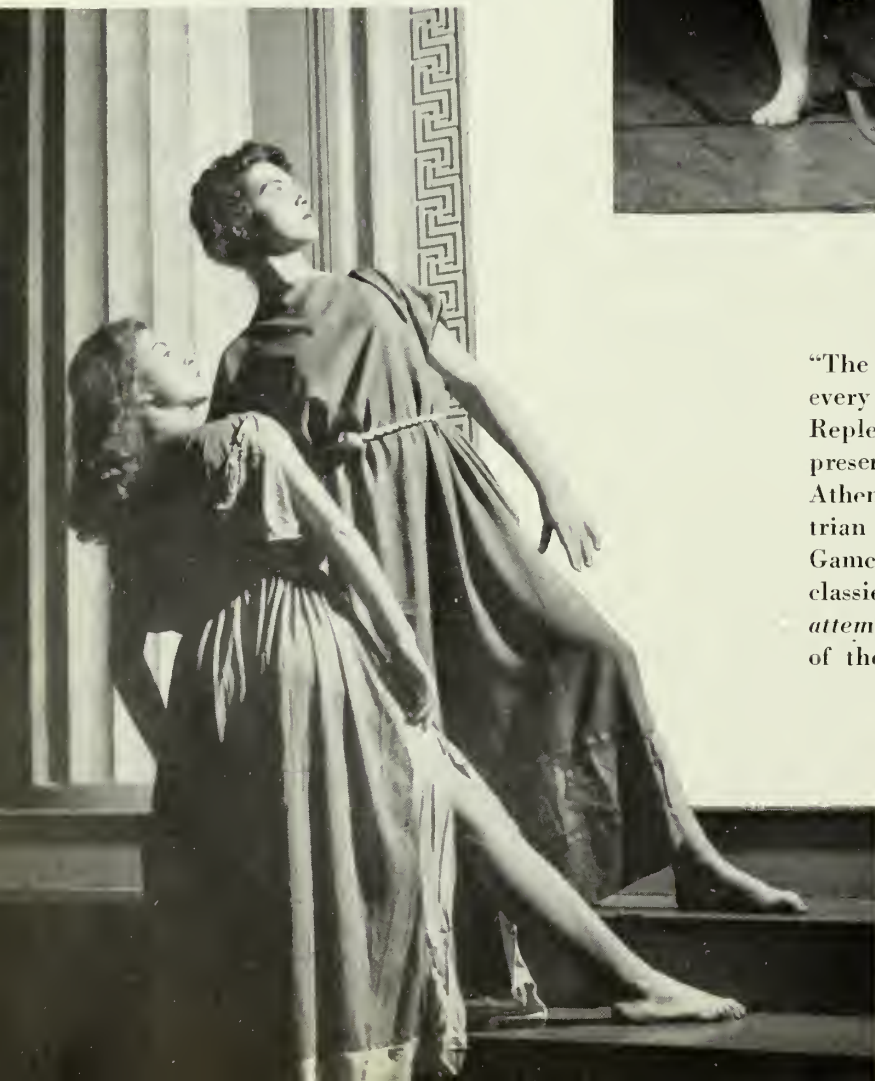

But three-day weekends at Barnard Camp still afford the best experience of camp life, (as well as of the chores involved in "roughing it"! ). Barnard Camp is the college sports world in its own rustic setting.

Camp Committee relaxes after barbecuing chicken.

Nike!

"The glory that was Greece"—recreated every year in Barnard Hall gymnasium. Replete with Pan-Athenaic Procession, the presentation of the saffron peplos to Athene, and the traditional musical, equestrian and athletic contests, Barnard Greek Games attempt, firstly, to reproduce the classical Greek festival in honor of Athene: attempt, secondly, to assert the superiority of the Sophomores over the Freshmen.

Greek Games is a series of vivid scenes in the memory—a gymnasium decked with ivy garlands, tragic and comic masks—fretting “horses”, clothed as horses never have been, in striking satin-white, purple, maroon, silver—colorful dancers in black and fuschia and pale green—eager athletes in gold, purple and blue—exciting races with flaming torches and crazily-rolling hoops—stately entrance processions, “citizens” carrying greens and forsythia, and the exchange of challenges. We remember the turbulent cries of Nike! and the final happy feeling of victory. Our Greek Games displayed the striving for classical accuracy and the good-spirited inter-class rivalry that characterize every annual contest. The sophomores were victorious, in this forty-fourth annual celebration of the games at Barnard, with a score of 54-46. In the athletic contests, the class of 1949 won the discus throw, under the chairmanship of Ruth Woods. The freshmen also won the hoop race under Jean Gools, and Ethel Hatcheson, 1949, wrote the winning lyric. The sophomores won the torch race under the chairmanship of Maureen Ennis, who also placed first in hurdling. Chairman of the winning class was Ann Murphy, and Margaret Shipman was Business Manager. Our Games had, too, in addition to these traditional elements, a fitting note of modernity. The sophomore dance was dedicated to Pallas Athene, in her capacity as goddess of Defensive War and of Peace.

To the Goddess

Athene

Our "worlds of women" at Barnard are seen to be, in the main, three-- academic, athletic and social. Actually,
Barnard contains within itself a fourth kind of world--a "cosmopolitan world" that is the result of our heterogenous society of students who come from all parts of this country and from all parts of the globe. Many types and races are represented in this "world" of ours -- and we can feel proud that, in our own way, we are thus giving expression to that "international spirit"
which is so well typified by our Dean,
and which is so important and necessary a goal for the world today.

Joan Abbrancati

Gracious, poised and serene. Joan tackled the arduous task of editing Mortarboard without ever getting flurried. Specializing in style and its expression, she likes fashion, art and writing. Enjoys a good game of golf and hostessing social affairs. Thoughtful and kind, she manages to be well-dressed at all times—a miraculous feat for a college girl.

Nancy Ackerson

A very real, honest person, with definite convictions about herself but tolerant toward what other people believe. Has a taste for perfume and jewelry, yet is able to hold her own with rifle, tennis racquet, or basketball. Possessing a certain amount of impulsiveness, she still gives the impression that she knows where she is headed at all times. Would like to teach English literature in a university.

Laura Adams

Whimsical blonde, with a slow, quite wonderful way of talking, and a skilled hand in raising horses. A philosophy major, Laura claims she possesses an exceptional talent for getting herself mixed up in things which she should have left alone. Looks awfully well in jodhpurs, but when she pulls herself away from the sporting life, collects French records, first editions, and is fond of the ballet and opera.

Anne Aldrich

Anne's love of winter sports, and her interest in international relations both profited by a year spent in Geneva. Her natural candour in expressing her opinions, plus a practical, feet-on-the-ground philosophy will undoubtedly revolutionize the State department once she gains entrance there. Has but one weakness: is an unabashed, enthusiastic, baseball fan.

Beatina Alexander

A native of Florida, Bea catches the eye with her pert feather cut and quick way of moving about. Takes English courses at Barnard and expects to go in for writing. Adores New Orleans and Creole food, golf, and the Navy. Is studying Chinese just for the fun of it (and does well at that); also is a bridge addict.

Mollie Allensworth

From Texas herself, Mollie has the accent to match, plus a fierce and fond loyalty to her home state. Will eventually go in for psychoanalysis after she gets her M.D., but meanwhile she enjoys doing summer stock and swimming at Cape Cod, and riding about the Texas ranchland. Cheerful and amusing, she adores week-ends at Annapolis and watching the Navy play football.

Helen Archibald

A conscientious red-head with a kind regard for other people's feelings, Ellie is somewhat of an idealist. Persistently optimistic about life, but scorns the Pollyana attitude. Her interest in world affairs naturally indicates some job with an international organization. Likes sentimental novels, window-shopping, and attending both the theater and films.

Alice Auge

A New Yorker born and bred, Alice is at Barnard after spending two years at Packer Junior College. Amusing, energetic, also extremely sociable—would starve rather than eat alone. The work she does with children at the Colony House is only a part of her deep interest in the field of psychology. Goes in for such diverse sports as sailing and field hockey.

Nancy Ross Auster

The class baby of 1926. Nancy's the first one ever to come to Barnard. Is a super-salesman who enjoys selling and doing all kinds of publicity work. Calm and quietly efficient, she finds time to make her own clothes and goes out very often—seemingly survives on virtually no sleep. Is an American studies major who is interested in research writing or in doing some form of social work.

Elizabeth Van Praag Bache

Independent and efficient. Van talks seriously about any and every subject. An ex-Wave and government major, she takes an active interest in AVC affairs, claiming that she doesn't want to miss anything that life has to offer. Found the transition from the military to the collegiate life a little strange at first, but her adaptability helped her to bridge it. Is continually amazed by the informality of Barnard attire.

Atra Baer

Very much the sophisticate, Atra is endowed with a cutting wit and a poised manner. Is known for her racy, humorous stories which are already famous at Barnard. Writes for the Journal-American in her spare time, looking forward to a column of her own in the near future. Athletics are out, but she makes New York her hobby, scorn- ing to live anywhere else.

Emilia Banks

Emilia actually looks the part of the true philosophy major—is a dreamer, esthete, and lover of peace and quiet. Refined and charming, yet direct and amiable, she is more at home away from the city—plans to "rough it" cross-country after graduation. Favors mountain-climbing, bike-riding, and huge dogs (the bigger the better). Reads a lot—particularly plays by Shaw and Ibsen.

Cornelia Barber

A permanent patron of the Barnard Hall roof. "Keena" is noted for her long, blonde hair and for getting the first beautiful suntan of the year. Calm, humorous, amicable but independent, she's extremely interested in art, also fond of dancing. Likes swimming in the ocean, commuting from Port Chester, and doing unusual things. Her claim to fame is as "the girl who can't spell."

Barbara Barlow

Barbara comes to Barnard via Washington University because her husband is taking his Ph.D. in Physics at Columbia. Hopes to go through medical school herself and delve into pathology. Amusing, agreeable, she balks when it comes to small talk or large parties. Goes in for golf, basketball, swimming and sailing. Confesses to cramming at the last minute.

Nancy Bartlett

Noted for her ability to coin clever phrases and her fondness for pets—has three St. Bernard dogs and five cats of her own. Likeable, understanding, Nancy is taking history-government courses now, is desirous of a career in occupational therapy. Is fond of comfortable clothes, historical novels, and the movies as "a good source of information."

Margaret Baruth

Peggy is the liveliest combination of enthusiasm and ambition. Adept at turning out poetry and short stories, she says that writing is her first love, the theater her second. Has already done summer stock, trying her hand at directing and acting. Intense, versatile, also widely-travelled, especially throughout the forty-eight states, Canada, and Mexico.

Beatrice Bassi

Witty and realistic, Beatrice's philosophy is "live for today, and don't think of tomorrow until it gets here." Considers dwelling on what she'll do a couple of years from now pointless and silly. Transferred from St. Lawrence University in her sophomore year, and is now a government major. Collects records, and is interested in flower culture and floral arrangements.

Anne Battley

Anne's lovely hazel eyes reflect the soul of a true musician. Came to New York from Port Huron Junior College to study voice, and aspires to be a professional singer, having already given public recitals. A sociology major with an interest in international relations, she deplores labs which conflict with more vital matters.

Astry Beeck

Astry brings her lively good humor and sparkling zest with her wherever she goes. Hopes to be a sculptress with a happy married life, but will settle for teaching art in a college if she can raise her batch of children on the side. Artistically inclined in many directions, she designs and makes her own clothes, and illustrates children's books. Raves about the classics in general, Michaelangelo in particular.

Alma Jean Beers

Slender, brown-eyed Alma genuinely likes people and will listen to their troubles by the hour. Experiments with creative writing (poetry and prose), takes part in political discussions, and is fond of amateur philosophizing. An international relations major, she is headed for the field of journalism. Likes dogs, hiking, and attending the ballet; also dotes on steaks with mushrooms.

Judith Behr

Claiming no creative ability of her own, Judy is nevertheless a fond critic and admirer of the world's great artists. Is particularly interested in modern art, but admits that she can sometimes be baffled. Likes all sports, and is especially fascinated by watching polo matches. Humorous, her gaiety tinged with a note of seriousness, she loves to chat over a cup of coffee.

Doris Biggio

A mixture of fun and sobriety. Doris has a many-sided personality to match her diverse interests. Can be hard-working, quiet, and earnest one moment—and brimming over with gaiety the next. Takes time out to enjoy week-ends at Barnard camp, and all activities connected with the world of sports. Is known for her hilarious observations about people and places.

Ruth Bloom

Alternating between extremes of enthusiasm and depression. Ruth is either up in the air or down in the dumps. Is an American studies major, but does not plan to utilize her courses in a job—is looking forward to marriage and perhaps running a camp. Deeply interested in all sorts of athletics (even fond of gym classes); music (she plays the piano and sings); and in American history.

June Bousley

A reaction against her conventional Massachusetts background. June goes all out for the AYD, and Permanent Peace Committee. Independent and self-reliant, with decided views on life and politics; also a quirk of humor which frequently tempers her judgments. Abhors the "typical college girl" with her disinterest in world affairs. Intends to hitch-hike across Europe to the Promised Land—Russia.

Jean Boyce

Jean's a forthright person who manages to be good-tempered even in the morning, and is fun to be with at all times. Was an Army wife when that was the fashion, and lived in one room in the South. Spends her spare time cooking, buying new books, and writing monologues for WKCR. Gay, effervescent, with an openly admitted ambition—to write!

Dorothy Bradford

Blonde, blue-eyed Dot finds work harder since she transferred here from Smith. Is majoring in history, but this does not prevent her from reading anything and everything. Artistically endowed, she employs her creative talent in painting and illustrating term papers. Fond of such sports as tennis, golf, riding, and skating.

Babette Brimberg

A lively, amiable red-head, Bobby curses the over-active conscience that drives her to industry. Is amused by self-styled extroverts and likes to retaliate in kind—puts her imagination to work when people and parties lag. Fond of listening to philosophic digressions and fantastic schemes to make the world over. Also admires Kipling stories, good dancing, and people who refuse to take life too seriously.

Judith Brimberg

An extremist by nature, Judy adheres to the all-or-nothing school—tackles all unpleasant tasks in one fell swoop. Believes that the essence of individuality is important (this, because she is a twin), and likes starting with clean slates. Thinks that British humor is marvelous; also addicted to antique furniture, and novels by Koestler. Dreams of being a foreign correspondent in a bar in Singapore.

Anne Townley Brooks

Originally of the class of '45, Townley served as a Nurse's Aide for two war years. Auburn-haired, absent-minded, alternately gregarious and lone wolf. Would be glad to reform the world if someone would finance her. An amateur ornithologist and camera enthusiast, she also enjoys dramatics, classical music, poetry and skiing.

Mable Brown

Well aware of her Bohemian blood, Mable longs to roam the world as a gay, carefree adventurer. Serene and laughing, she never rushes, yet manages to get a lot of things accomplished. Dotes on ships and dogs, especially her small, tan cocker called "Mopey." Enjoys flinging out her full name—Mable Rucenka Inness Brown—just to confuse people.

Paulette Brown

Natural and unaffected. "Penny" always appears to be bubbling over with vigor and pep. Bacteriology major, but more interested in marriage than a career. Likes people, being with them, and indulging in long, long conversations. A typically well-rounded person, she is an avid hockey fan, likes football games, and enjoys such sports as riding, tennis, and swimming.

Irene Brussovansky

Sincere, thoughtful, likes to help people out. European-born. Irene's interests are strictly international—spent her junior year at Geneva, and eventually plans to enter the diplomatic field, perhaps as a translator. Is able to converse in five tongues, designating languages as her hobby. Sensitive, fun to be with, she's extraordinarily well-read, from the Russian authors straight down the line.

Evelyn Buell

Modest, conservative and endowed with discriminating taste. Evelyn prefers the classics to jazz and old masters to modern art. Plays both piano and organ, and enjoys improvisation. Somewhat intense, she strongly favors backing up one's beliefs by working hard in their behalf. Hopes someday to accomplish the impossible: will endeavor to bridge the gap between capital and labor.

Barbara Burtner

Despairing of her own procrastination, Babs works hard, but loves loafing and talking into the wee hours of the morning. Poised, sophisticated, with numerous ideas and an answer for every situation. Hopes someday to have a rambling house not too far from civilization; meanwhile enjoys dancing, cooking, and gay week-ends. Alert, interested, is happiest when she is doing things.

Dorothy Buschow

Dottie's one girl in a million—industriously pursues her studies, yet also has an amazingly wide social life. A well-adjusted psych major, she's in her element among people. Fond of dancing and dorm bull sessions. Really very unusual—is scrupulously neat about her appearance and room; also makes schedules of work in advance and always completes them.

Barbara Byers

Bobby manages to adapt her varied and debonair personality to a flair for writing, a taste for photography, and a knack for enjoying all kinds of people. Is also musically endowed, having studied voice and the piano, with particular emphasis on the former. A transfer from Grove City College, she aims for journalism or government work abroad.

Elinor Catill

"Herbie" blithely takes life as it comes—relaxing! Avoids required gym classes like the plague, expressing her preference for a more sedentary sport like fishing. Tall, imperturbable, she hails from Lawrence, Massachusetts, is specializing in French courses here at school. Musically inclined, she divides her time equally between the piano and bridge sessions.

Dalva Canha

Born in Brazil, Dalva dreams of going home to Rio after completing her studies here. Volatile, enthusiastic, a real Latin "bombshell," she adores New York's opera and ballet, and Columbia's football team. Genuinely interested in the languages and customs of people from other lands—speaks English herself without an accent, and is studying French. Enjoys listening to modern South American and French songs.

Ruth Carter

Noted for her friendly exuberance, Ruth even dances in the halls. A potential physicist, her main ambition, however, is to travel on a tramp steamer. Likes sports followed by a nice, lazy rest, and is fond of very bright colors and music by Sibelius. Also crazy about cats, clams on the half shell, and Barnard. Shudders over people who are horribly cheerful before breakfast.

Doris Cashmore

Very much alive and energetic herself, Doris is annoyed by blasé people. Steering herself toward a career in inter-American cultural relations, she has already visited Venezuela and Mexico, is an active member of the Pan-American Woman's Association. Is completely sold on Pan-American art, music, and customs; also interested in commercial photography.

Anne Chambers

A psych major with ambitions in the field of child psychology, Ann is here after attending West Virginia Wesleyan, a college near the University of West Virginia. Classifies reading and music as her hobbies. Has already started a small library ranging from Thurber and Ogden Nash to Shakespeare. Also has studied the piano, prefers symphonies to modern jazz, and is getting acquainted with opera.

Marian Chappel

Marian combines her calm temperament with an impetuous spirit and a gypsy love for wandering. Talks incessantly about her ensign husband whom she met at a coffee dance, of all places. Does exhibition dancing; is also proficient as golfer, swimmer, and dressmaker. Is leaving for Europe next summer to work with the youth Hostels and aid in the rehabilitation of European students.

Hui Chen

Hui's a philosopher at heart, yet shows a practical interest in politics. Is tactful, sincere, and fun-loving; also grand company despite her stoic attitude, and one of the easiest persons in the world to get along with. Future plans include furthering industrial chemistry in China. Admits to only two vices: reading volumes of Virginia Wolfe and devouring oranges.

Caroline Christensen

Caroline's friendly manner and interest in people influenced her to select psychology as her major field of study. A pleasant, attractive transfer from the Packer Collegiate Institute, she has fond recollections and numerous anecdotes about the summer she spent working for an engineering firm. Is a sociable and even-tempered person who admits to a deep passion for tennis.

Jane Clark

A sincere, unassuming person who does things quickly and does them well, Jane takes the saying "actions speak louder than words" for her motto. Transferred here after two years at Cornell where she was the center of student activities. Is a history-government major looking forward to a career in personnel work. Athletics, people and music take up her spare time.

Ruth Cocks

Bright blue eyes and blonde hair make Ruth a charming fixture of both odd study and the sun deck. Thinks that the South sounds like a nice place to live in, but her present weakness is the North Wood Lodge and Lake Pleasant. Has a taste for travel, and for mystery stories. Secret ambition: to work in an F.B.I. lab.

Eunice Coke-Jephcott

Eunice took a two year vacation from Barnard, and just returned to our ranks this year. During that time, she was in the WAVES, stationed in Philadelphia, as a photography specialist. Amiable and easy-going, but somewhat reserved and reticent as to her own affairs and ambitions. Lists photography and mechanics as her chief hobbies.

Gloria Coll

Quick, volatile, loquacious, Gloria's wealth of vivacity comes to her without the aid of vitamin pills—is just naturally that way. Her tastes run to a fondness for fashions, dancing, and anything French. That last preference is the ruling passion of her life—eventually plans on visiting Paris and working for the French Vogue. Considers surviving her freshman year the greatest thing she ever accomplished.

Claire Schindler Collier

Friendly and engaging, Claire says that the biggest day in her life was watching her fiancé graduate first in his class at Annapolis, and then marrying him four hours later. Right now marriage is making a cook and an athlete out of her, this last against her better judgment. Enjoys her economics major, although she doesn't intend to utilize it.

Jean Condon

Somewhat idealistic as to her outlook, Jean has settled on a career in social work—is interested in people, and wants to travel to far climes to examine world-wide social conditions. In her spare moments, she reads, hikes, takes boat trips, listens to music, and munches her favorite food—gumdrops. Is allergic to shuttle trains, routine, and bread puddings.

Nancy Cone

A Southerner from Virginia, Nancy is known for her quick mind, her keen understanding, and her generous nature. Taking courses in government, but has a flair for writing. Reads intensively—loves literature, and knows it thoroughly. Fond of football, and all animals with the exception of alligators. Among her pet peeves she lists door slamming, and standing on line.

Marianne Courad

Gregarious, buoyant, and always on the go, "Gerrie" is generous to a fault. Alternates between spurts of intensive study and a devil-may-care attitude. Fond of bridge, sunning herself, and week-ends at West Point. A Spanish major and French minor, she hopes to utilize these languages when travelling abroad. Noted for her proficiency with chop-sticks, a talent acquired during her childhood in the Orient.

Lois Cooper

A linguist with a general inclination toward almost everything and everyone. Reads Schopenhauer or the Bible aloud in the bathtub; also enjoys French impressionistic painting, and music ranging from Ellington to Brahms. 'Coop' collects old newspapers and bottles, and takes great pride in her ability to light matches with her toes. Her future is all mapped out—$150 per week as a translator, and a child.

Irene Coutsoumaris

Born in Athens, Irene is learning to adjust to the United States as well as Barnard. Lived most of her life in Greece and attended medical school there for one year before journeying abroad. Finds the customs and the pace of living very different, but says that the girls at school have helped to alleviate her home-sickness. Is fond of swimming and modern dancing.

Ann Cowan

Dark-haired and vibrant, Ann moves fast and furiously with an enormous amount of vitality. Despite this, she claims that sleeping late is one of her hobbies. Straightforward and direct, with definite ideas and a candid sense of humor. Is a good athlete, but prefers the comforts of home to roughing it in the great outdoors. Wants to go abroad after college.

Jean Couperthwaite

Jean confesses her outstanding trait is the fact that she tries to do too many things at once. Has trouble choosing between science and music as her first love: is studying chemistry and worked in a laboratory for a few years before coming to college—also attended music school to satisfy her feeling for the piano. Enjoys skiing at Vermont, and swimming.

June Craggett

A history major brimming with plans for the future, June hails from Kansas City and Stephens College. She has already served as assistant to a psychologist counseling veterans on personnel and vocational problems; dabbles in oil painting in her spare moments. After taking her "Masters" at Columbia, she'll tackle that historical novel and travel extensively on the royalties.

Marianne Crocker

A gracious, kind girl who goes by the piquant name of "Apples." Is deeply interested in philosophy and exploring different avenues of thought. Her deep regard for other people extends to such humanitarian activities as teaching the deaf and the blind. Music lover, and possessed of a gay humor and an adventurous spirit, she is proof that all Bostonians are not George Apples.

Joy-Daphne Cuypers

Joy combines the delicate coloring of a Dresden doll with a decisive chin that matches determined opinions. An international relations major, she is of Dutch origin, speaks the language, and also acquired a perfect French accent at the Lycée Français, which she attended before transferring to Barnard. Loves French poetry, Viennese waltzes, and Virgil Patch cartoons.

Barbara Davis

Barbara's slender, fragile appearance is deceptive, especially when she takes her tennis racquet in hand. Has already won fame in tournaments, and gave an exhibition match with Pauline Betz at Barnard. A transfer from William and Mary, she's majoring in speech with her eye on a radio career. Characteristically cheerful and enthusiastic, her talents also extend into the musical field.

Patricia Day

Has often been told that she looks like the cover of Seventeen, yet manages to contradict this impression by her adult, sensitive nature. A wise friend and sympathetic listener, Pat's always ready with a constructive suggestion—also can make wonderfully dry comments. Would like to do some writing, and travel about after college. Enjoys reading, day-dreaming, and long walks in the rain.

Karin Delmoute

Born in Hamburg, Germany, Karin travelled through three continents before finally settling down in Rio de Janeiro. Is a chemistry student with medical school as her destination. Takes everyone and everything very seriously, herself included. Is able to converse in German and Portuguese, as well as English; adores the opera, playing the accordion, and horseback riding.

Christina deMello

Both Barnard and New York are new experiences for Chris, who comes here from Portuguese India. Says that the trip from India to Lisbon was her first sea voyage, the remainder of the way from Lisbon to New York her first air journey. A transfer from the Isabella Thoburn College in Lucknow, India, she's majoring in chemistry in preparation for medical school.

Helen Virginia Denninger

Chic, gay Helen definitely does not look like a math teacher—nevertheless she eventually expects to be one. A charming and gracious hostess, she dotes on British films, music by Chopin and Debussy, and exotic foods. Loves dogs, Scotch collies in particular, and intends to raise them instead of children. Really ought to live in London to satisfy her delight in foggy weather.

Gwendoline deRothschild

Better known as Gwen, her interest in international studies stems in part from the fact that she's from Austria via England. Appears to be shy and quiet, but actually possesses a riotous sense of fun, and can usually be found in the noisy corner of the library contributing to the uproar. An outdoor girl, she's fond of skiing, sailing, and summers in Maine.

Janet DeWitt

Sweet-voiced and serious minded. Jan generally gives the impression of having just stepped out of a band-box. Has a natural flair for the sophisticated in design and decoration, an unusual attribute for a prospective chemical researcher. Is very much interested in Chinese affairs, and plans on taking up her career there. She collects miniature vases in her spare time, and is fond of sewing.

Dorothy Dingfeld

One of the youngest members of '48, but you would never guess it by looking at her. Dot's a tall, friendly chem major who would like to work in a lab, and travel about the U. S. during vacations. Is genuinely interested in music (has already played the piano at small concerts), and in psychology. Film devotee and ballet fan; also bewails the fact that she adores rich food.

Pamela Dix

Artistically sensitive—without that temperament. Pam's a jolly person, always on the go, always laughing. Has a passion for sculpture, and for uncovering the quaint and unknown in life. Well-versed, with definitely formed ideas, she likes to "jibber" as she puts it—is actually an excellent conversationalist. Stores away an amazing amount of odd information.

Nan Douey

Nan maintains that she's a Texan through and through, but is willing to concede that New York and Barnard are exciting. Thoughtful, easy-going, with artistic tastes, she displays equal facility at singing and playing the piano; secretly hopes to be a poetess. Enjoys the theater and dancing; also keenly interested in Spanish culture, hoping to visit Mexico soon.

Frances Dowd

Tremendously enthusiastic about everything. Fran's altitude is never lower than 10,000 feet—sparkles all over. Manages to be a practical chem major and a dreamer at the same time. Crazy about gardenias, sailing, and Wagner's "Ring." Ultimately looks forward to marriage and a home near water where bugs won't dare to tread—she hates them!

Helga Dreves

"Dusty's" wild about horses and dogs, and takes great pride in training her German shepherd puppies. Good-natured, she favors dancing and social activities. Looks forward to travelling through South America in an automobile, which is good preparation for a career in the export-import trade with Latin America. Is sure to charm all the natives with her easy manner.

Theodora Du

Dainty and petite, smiling Teddy is an animated conversationalist, and an obliging, friendly person. Is deeply interested in "being a good wife and worthy citizen of China". After graduation, she plans on returning to the Far East with her husband and devoting her efforts in behalf of her native land. A charming person and sincere friend, the U. S. will miss her.

Mai Duane

Maidie's first prize possession was a paint brush, and she's still fond of it. A fine arts major, she admires the religious in painting, even collects angels, but will come down to earth once in a while for genre or landscapes. Drawls slowly but thinks fast; fond of being with people. Relates extraordinarily harrowing tales about the summer she spent as a Nurse's Aide in the mental ward of a hospital.

Sigrid Dueland

Sig has all the traits of a heroine in children's stories—she's pretty, charming, cooperative, reserved, yet sympathetic to the problems of those around her. Musically inclined, she plays the organ, sings with the glee club, and gives piano lessons to students. Hopes one day to conduct a choir, but will combine this career with marriage.

Elizabeth Dunlop

Once a Grade A soda jerk, her future plans are somewhat more ambitious: will teach history, have a home and family, and travel widely, although not necessarily in that order. Lively, genuinely funny, she's had varied jobs and just as varied experiences which she amusingly relates. Blames the ruination of a perfect figure on her pet pastime—eating.

Jean Dunn

A Southerner without the customary drawl. A girl of widespread interests, Jean takes courses in geology, but is also inclined toward the drama. Aside from being an inveterate theater-goer, she's fond of bridge, summers on the beach, Fred Waring and Vaughn Monroe's orchestral arrangements. Thinks the fact that she spent a year in a college dormitory without taking up smoking is somewhat remarkable.

Elizabeth Eastman,

Liz is noted for her ability to get A's, her remarkable organizing faculties, and her constant flow of chatter. Plans to do psychiatric social work after college, then will be an unconventional minister's wife, with five children. Adores Winnie the Pooh, singing, and bull sessions; also gets excited over Keats' poetry and amateur psychology. Can often be found in the Lion's Den.

Inga-Britta Elgcrona

Inga's long auburn hair and her quick way of talking are very characteristic. Hailing from Maine, she also has travelled in Finland and Sweden, but still adores New York. Fond of music, dancing, chocolate malteds, chess, and Italian pies. Her ruling ambition: to marry her ex-Columbia man, who is now with the U. S. Army.

Nancy Elmendorf

Earnest, straightforward, and serious-minded, "Toby" is also feminine enough to accept the idea that woman's place is in the home. Is honest, conservative in an uninhibited way, and possesses a talent for mimicry. Dreamy, inclined to hero-worship, she devotes her spare hours to creating lyrical poetry. Always experimenting with different hair-does—can look twelve one day, twenty-five the next.

Maureen Ennis

Known for her diverting charm and witty loquacity, "Maur" is typically good humored, always gay and effervescent. A whimsical person, she manages to have her pensive and philosophical sides as well. Is the social type—enjoys being with people and dotes on good parties. Also has a liking for the opera, French literature, the Ivy League, and going hunting?

Anne Estanguet

A gay, volatile person, Anne's interests are dominated by her fondness of France—spent part of her life there, and has elected French as her major at college. Characterized by a sense of chic, she designs and sews expertly, would like a career in fashions. Enthusiastic about travel, playing the violin, and outdoor camping. Enjoys spending quiet afternoons in the tea-room.

Eileen Evers

Eileen bubbles over with good spirits, talks easily and interestingly. Transferred from the University of Arizona, and is set on continuing her government major. Enjoys improvising popular music on the piano, and sailing around Rhode Island. Effervescent, communicative, and laughing, she also goes in for tennis, but lists botany as the subject she hates the most.

Mearl Fenwick

A physician in embryo who prescribes laughter as the one perfect cure-all. Mearl's a regular study in contrasts, to wit: offsets her athletic abilities with exotic dress and sophisticated manner; also a witty and rapid conversationalist, she may turn unexpectedly shy. Fond of riding, eating and loafing. Hates to be asked why she wears three-inch heels and high upsweeps at the same time.

Sabina Fitzgibbon

A native New Yorker, Sabina has just returned to the fold, and to Barnard, after a two year stint at Smith. Is glad to be back and appreciates the city more than ever. Majoring in fine arts, she trots around to all sorts of museums and exhibits—but manages to get in some golf in her spare time. Future plans are indefinite, but she may eventually wind up doing interior decorating.

Ann Ford

A Westerner at heart, Andy takes for her motto "Don't fence me in." Enthusiastic, extroverted, likes having people around her. Interested in languages and the theater, preferring backstage work to acting. Crazy about Montana, the wide open spaces, and people who are always natural. A volatile talker, but characteristically has never won an argument.

Muriel Fox

Socially inclined, Muriel enjoys being in a crowd and likes having people around her. Gay, spirited, she is aiming to be a writer, perhaps a labor columnist. Has already had newspaper experience: was art critic and wrote a society column for the Miami Daily News, also did general news coverage for UP. Crazy about poetry by Shelley, and gets excited whenever anyone mentions the Dodgers.

Hope Ann Franz

Hope's an all-out sports fan—intensely preoccupied with the doings of the Rovers, the Rangers, the Giants—and able to shoot a mean basketball herself. Keen, earnest and sincere, she's a self-styled "reformed introvert". Likes to write and is quite ambitious along these lines—first will be a foreign correspondent, and later settle down to the job of running a small town newspaper.

Patricia Froelich

Pat's the type of person who manages to crowd forty-eight hours into twenty-four—astounding people with the things she accomplishes. Is doing work in math now, hoping for a job with plenty of excitement to occupy her post-Barnard days. Energetic, versatile, she expresses her artistic and athletic bents in drawing and swimming respectively.

Juliaanna Gaddy

Fond of literary pursuits, Juliaanna looks forward to a future in the magazine or newspaper world—to be followed by marriage and progeny. At present, devotes study-free hours to riding, tennis, golf, bowling, and meditating upon the atonic bomb. Particularly enjoys masculine southern accents, and thinking up dire fates for alarm clocks and floors that squeak when you want them to be noiseless.

Dorothy Gaebelein

"Dodie" does everything well and inconspicuously. Has a superior imagination and a sense of humor to complement it. Fond of riding, playing chess, and badminton. Devoted to her wonderful family which she constantly raves about. If not on seven Hewitt engrossed in a bull session, you may find her poring over the pages of a detective story.

Audrey Gensel

Very feminine as to her appearance, soft and delicate-looking Audrey is an English literature major because she thinks it's a good way to learn about people and their motives. Married to a Lutheran minister for the past three and a half years, she now resides at Union Theological Seminary. Addicted to team sports, semi-classical music, and club activities; also interested in religion.

Mildred Gerdtz

Mildred's apparent quietness is deceiving—she becomes effervescent and vivacious when among people she knows. Once you get her started, she'll talk continuously about her array of men, and her marvelous apartment on 119th Street. Is majoring in German, but intends to do work in psychology. Is invariably late to nine o'clock classes, despite the fact that she lives so near to the school.

Marilyn Gledhill

Characterized by a dry sense of humor and an ability to mimic people, Lyn possesses a surety which carries her through any situation. A foreign area studies major, with emphasis on the Near East, she's learning Islamic and Arabic in preparation for a job there as an export official. Outside of going abroad, her chief ambition is to own a mink coat.

Constance Godfrey

Characterized by her frank, direct manner, lively humor, and a sense of direction, Connie is fond of words and thoughts—wishes that conversation were more of an art. Has already had her poetry published in a college anthology, but aims to see Europe as a reconstruction worker before settling down to write. Lists philosophy as her main interest and tennis as her favorite sport.

Gloria-Ann Gray

A friendly, nonchalant New Yorker who manages to be feminine in appearance, yet is also surprisingly athletic. Fond of bowling and volleyball, but chiefly remembered in Greek Games as the horse with nervous anticipation. A chemistry major who looks forward to a career in ceramic engineering and the traditional vine-covered cottage.

Will-Eva Gray

Tall, glamorous blonde who's always on the run, going places and doing things. Feminine as to her appearance and tastes, she is an enthusiastic person who radiates a good deal of charm. Intends to use her speech major in a career as a radio actress, that is, if she doesn't try her hand at illustrating. Will-Eva's home is in Tampa, Florida, but she dotes on New York.

Patience Greey

An inveterate movie-goer who even dreams in technicolor, with triple features nightly. Wants to see the world, and at the same time exhaust the possibilities of amateur photography. "Pay" defends the pun as the highest form of humor, bears a grudge against New York, and yearns to live the life of a "country gentleman."

Marjorie Greenwald

A vivacious and lively person, Marjorie turns serious when she settles down to her studies—has a searching mind and intense intellectual curiosity which enables her to absorb odd bits of knowledge. A sociology major, but with ambitions in the merchandising field. Transferred from Wells College this year, and enjoys the theater, dancing, and Chinese food.

Hertha Haberlander

Pleasant, gentle of voice and of smile, Hertha goes her quiet way, yet encompasses a lot of work and makes many friends. Born in Germany, she's lived here for fourteen years—but hopes to take her M.A. in the land of her birth. Loves children, riding, and cooking unusual dishes. Thinks that Wednesday afternoon tea is positively the nicest institution at Barnard.

Patricia Hale

Lively, gay Pat says that her main ambition in life is to get a job and see the world. A native of Portland, Maine, she has already spent a summer as a newspaper woman, searching for and consuming the "local color" in her home state. Loves island life, and enjoys playing tennis and listening to music. Objects to people who yell at her in the morning.

DO NOT WRITE IN THESE SPACES

Caryl Hamburger

Caryl is one girl who even manages to make smoking a cigarette appear dramatic. Has a blasé, world-weary manner, yet is energetic enough when it comes to working for WKCR, taking radio and play writing courses—naturally plans on entering the theater and radio. Pleaded guilty when accused of playing "giant steps" at three in the morning with fellow delinquents in the dorms.

Gwenda Hardin

Always bright and jolly, it seems that nothing can get Gwenda down. Has her goal mapped out already; will be a public health nurse and a housewife. Her interest in nursing stems from the fact that she's the daughter of two doctors. Occupies her spare hours by making hats, collecting china dogs, and gardening. Heading the list of things that irk her are library fines.

Catherine Harrington

Sweet-faced, imperturbable Cathy is wonderfully relaxing to be with. Quiet, sunny-natured, nothing ever fazes her; yet with all this, she possesses a remarkable amount of stamina and determination. Knows and loves music, and is fond of race horses (her mother keeps a stable). Is taking zoology courses, with her outlook toward either research or perhaps medical school.

Mary Harrington

Mary's the transfer from the University System of Georgia who distinguished herself by twenty-two-and-a-half months service in the WAVES, spending most of her time in San Francisco. Witty, with ever-mischievous sparkle in her brown eyes, she majors in zoology, and is determined to be a medical technologist and do research work. Is famed for her smooth speech, feather cut, and bulging brief case.

Janua Hassett

An "Army brat" of Northern background, but with fond memories of Southern posts. Prefers men to women, fishing to bridge, and a set of tennis to experimenting with new coiffures. Independent, dislikes being ordered to do something, but can be "worked around" if handled properly. Aims for Columbia Journalism and the thrill of selling something she writes.

Marianne Hatch

Versatile, amusing, and entertaining, "Nan" came here after finishing up at Bennett Junior College, and says that "Barnard is stimulating but hard!" Is a speech major, but the accent is on dramatics, which she'll probably go in for. Likes the outdoors, and has fond recollections of summers spent as counsellor at an arts camp in Vermont.

Barbara Heuly

Music major, with all her interests centered about 'musicology,' has studied the 'cello and plays in the university orchestra. Tall, slender, and industrious, Barbara loves going to school in New York, but prefers summering in the woods of Northern Minnesota, and her own home in St. Paul. Likes horseback riding and going on picnics; as for favorite foods, she'll take lamb chops and liver anytime.

Barbara Hewlett

Breezy, athletic-minded, Bobby just naturally turns to the A.A. as the focal point of her many activities. Rates very highly the qualities of good sportsmanship and individuality. Is crazy about horses, poetry, and photography. Would like to live in the country the whole year round. Fervently hopes to utilize her botany major in the genetics department of the Carnegie Institute.

Ruth Hill

"Midge's" contagious good spirits even survive hours of commuting from New Jersey each day. Interested in international relations, but will embark upon marriage rather than a career after graduation. Likes painting and molding miniature clay models. Also fond of meeting new people and going to new places—fits in easily anywhere.

Constance Hinman

A self-taught linguist, Connie has travelled extensively throughout Europe and the United States—would like to see the rest of the world. Career plans are not yet crystallized, but they've narrowed down to teaching, doing government work, or writing a novel. Cooking, writing poetry, and collecting recordings of Italian operas figure among her pastimes.

Marian Hinn

Marian's an English major for no better reason than the fact that she likes it. First attended Texas University and then worked during the war before coming here—says she loves New York but wishes that it were as warm as Texas. Possesses an earnest desire to amass knowledge, and wants to learn to be a more active citizen in her community. Fond of music, and especially the piano.

Doris Hoffman

Jovial and energetic, Doris paints non-objectively, sings in minstrels, and dotes on Hitchcock movies, Maugham and Steinbeck. Definitely a career girl, is studying psych at school, aims at overseas rehabilitation work. Can cut a few figures when the ice is solid, and gasps ecstatically with the rest of the crowd at auto races.

Mary Ellen Hoffman

Alternately very sensible or very fanciful, Mary Ellen makes friends readily, and stands by them. Is majoring in French, looking forward to a career on Harper's Bazaar in Paris. Has a veritable passion for Gilbert and Sullivan—knows most of their operettas by heart. Spends her spare time sketching, and is delightfully mad on the subject of hats—creates many of her own.

Rona Hoffman

A versatile bundle of energy, Rona is intent on dancing her way into success—loves both ballet and the modern kind. A petite transfer from the Packer Collegiate Institute, her only complaint is that Barnard is a little too far from Flatbush. Collects records and goes horseback riding in her spare time. Dislikes subways in general, and men who are devoid of rhythm when dancing.

Nancy Holland

Nancy's knack of drawing people out of their shells should give her enough material when she gets around to writing that novel of hers. Confesses that she manages to get into the most awkward situations without any effort on her part. Is fond of music ranging from jazz 'way up the scale to symphonies and ballets. Lists "eating in the dorms" as an extra-curricular activity!

Joan Marie Holly

A sincere, earnest, and lovely person who seems quite serious until those sparkling eyes of hers give her away. Having attended Virginia Intermont College for two years, Jean will complete her chemistry studies at Barnard. Loves swing music and dancing; also has her athletic side as well, as she rides and swims with the best of them.

Eleanor Holly

Resolute Eleanor is tackling marriage and commuting from Princeton, New Jersey, to Barnard simultaneously. Is here after a two year detour to Wheaton College, and intends to utilize her zoo major to go on to work in bacteriology. In between her many activities, she finds time to take voice lessons, and also enjoys sailing and riding.

Anne Hopkins

A government major with her eye on a career in the diplomatic or international service. Anne comes to Barnard by way of Western College in Oxford, Ohio. Kind and friendly, she gets along easily with people. Would like to go out for sports more, but claims that commuting from New Jersey leaves her with hardly enough energy to pick up a tennis racquet.

Mary Hough

Essentially gregarious with an ability to see the humor in situations. Mary has little patience with the proverbial gloomy and disillusioned person. An English literature major with a wide background of reading. Fond of music, sports, travel, and folk songs. Doesn't like losing time, and is still searching for a cure for procrastination.

Jo Elaine Howard

Jo's from Wyoming but attended Colorado Women's College before coming here. Was a voice major, but is taking general courses at Barnard, voice instruction elsewhere. Loves the West with its small towns and big cattle ranches; enjoys riding—especially taking the high jumps. Likes New York clothes and studying music here; hopes to carry her mezzo-soprano into radio work.

Alibeth Howell

A sophomore transfer, "Al" commuted for one year, but now bubbles with enthusiasm over the "wonderful" dorms. Fond of collecting records and theatre programs, she classifies the Old Vic engagement in New York as one of her most thrilling experiences. Raves about her three handsome brothers, Bernstein's compositions, and steak with onions. Is a sociology major with an eye for travel.

Hope Howieson

Versatile Hope is a zoology major who dabbles in just about everything. A sincere person, she unconsciously makes a hobby of knowing people. Likes to laugh (and does a great deal of it); is a sports enthusiast; and also plays the piano, although she prefers the listening end of it. Considers getting a room in the dorms her greatest accomplishment to date.

Sheila Inglis

A lovely, blonde Britisher who resides at Glacie Letchworth in Herts, England, and possesses a grave, charming manner. Intends to utilize her chemistry studies toward a medical career. Has travelled around Western Europe and Canada, as well as the U.S. Was home during the best and worst years of the war, 1940 and 1945. Fond of sports, she enjoys basketball here, and tennis in England.

Ruth Proudman Ivey

Lively and entertaining, this ex-Wave is an English literature major whose life revolves around her Navy husband. After her Barnard degree, she'll sandwich teaching English between raising a family. A talented person with varied tastes and inclinations, she takes time out to play the piano with the New Canaan Symphony Orchestra, and is deeply interested in French and Italian culture.

Joan Jacks

Despite her quiet manner, Joan has definitely formed concepts of people and places. A soft-spoken fine arts major who went across the street to the School of Architecture for a year, but is now back at Barnard for her degree. Sketches, enjoys classical music, swims and rides. Has already journeyed about the Eastern seaboard, and is looking forward to future travel out West.

Frances Jeffrey

Combining a nice sense of humor with a magnificent reading capacity, Frances' friends consider her a true scholar. Interested in contemporary politics, history, and American government, she intends to teach after obtaining that Masters degree from Columbia. Is one of those odd people who enjoys gym classes and choir practice. Wants to travel and see more of the United States—particularly the West.

Adrienne Johnson

'Abie' is a transfer from William and Mary Extension in Norfolk, Virginia, where she has lived between jaunts to China, Japan, and Honolulu, with her Navy family. The two loves of her life (beside the Navy) are animals and music. She's "daft" (her favorite adjective) about the fascinating places in New York, but misses being able to have dogs. Is enthusiastic about her government major at Barnard.

Elizabeth Johnson

Witty Elizabeth speaks in a low voice without a trace of that Louisville, Kentucky, accent except when she gets excited. Is taking English literature courses because she enjoys them so much, but is more interested in music—does choir work herself and loves Brahms and the opera. A dorm student who gets great fun out of living at school.

Marilyn Johnson

Tall and stately, this serene red head adores the sea. Is fond of boating, and goes with her family to Canada every summer on their thirty-four foot boat. Is studying Spanish and naturally would like to visit Mexico City. Loves to dance, and likes listening to concert music. A resident of Long Island herself, she hopes to spend the rest of her days living in the country near salt water.

Sarah Josephine Johnston

Sally Jo's laughing blue eyes and shoulder-length blonde hair are two good reasons why she was chosen Columbia's "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi." Is an American studies major from Indiana who dotes on queer food, and travelling; "hemen" also catch her fancy. Has one great ambition: to make a million dollars before 1960.

Helen-Patricia Jones

Spontaneous and irrepressible, Jonesy's the class comedienne—but is able to laugh at herself as well as at others. Poetess and artist, she eulogizes Thurber, El Greco and Frank Lloyd Wright. Has an independent, direct, intense philosophy; diverse interests. Creates unusual recipes, original fashions to startle the campus, horoscopes and unfinished novels. Plans a legal career.

Rosalie Joseph

Rose wants to formulate a theory at the age of 25 and rest on her laurels the rest of her life. A Physics major with a "Puckish" sense of humor, she dislikes required class meetings, and adolescents who are over-poised and over-dressed. Enjoys sports, reading Greek plays and French novels, and feeding squirrels on Riverside Drive in January.

Ruth Josephson

Lively and jolly, Ruth says she likes to make people laugh; brightens up many a dull hour with her infectious merriment. An economics government major, she's out to upset the economics department by disproving the normal probability curve—her initial experiments have already caused some unrest. Hasn't quite made up her mind between law school and the import-export business.

Alice Kaman

From Boston (which she thinks is heaven) with the Ha'va'd accent and a sharp wit. Is majoring in French with an interest in languages that amounts to almost an obsession. Future plans include a husband, a trip around the world, and four children who are as cute as three-year-old brother, Henry. Loves to tease her friends by feigning a strict Victorian attitude.

Shirley Kamell

Shirley talks rapidly, moves quickly, and can make friends at first meetings. Energetic and efficient, she epitomizes what psychologists call the social type. Medicine, marriage and travel loom on her horizon, but meanwhile she concentrates on zoology and trying to infuse fellow Barnardites with school spirit. Among her favorite likes: parades and people with enthusiasm.

Doris Kanter

Student by vocation, but playgirl by avocation. A native of Virginia, she began her college career at William and Mary, but made a happy transfer to Barnard during the middle of her sophomore year. Is an international relations major with her eye on Columbia Journalism—would like to be either a magazine or newspaper writer. Has already had experience along these lines as a reporter.

Anne Kennard

Very much the dignified young lady to all outward appearances, 'Kenny' brims over with fun and vitality. Has travelled and lived in such fascinating places as China, Japan and India—and hopes someday to see other parts of the world. A government major, her remote but fondest dream is law school after college. Adores the theater and Harvard.

Betty Jane Kirschner

Slender, graceful Betty Jane spent two years at the University of Illinois, and is now continuing her English composition major at Barnard. Has already done dramatic work on radio, and danced in college shows. Friendly and gay, she has a special fondness for dancing, theater-going, and reading modern poetry—with T. S. Eliot as her favorite.

Betty Lou Kirtley

Her deep regard for China is the ruling passion of Betty's life. Plans to live there after graduation, and is hoping to get a job as a reporter on the J. P. Powell newspaper. Hails from Chicago, and is a staunch Republican, manifesting a decided interest in politics. Likes the oriental and the exotic; is also a 'boogie' addict, a taste which she thinks is left over from her adolescence.

Barbara Knowlton

Collegiate as to appearance, Bobby is a very idealistic person—actually believes that people adhere to the same straightforward principles which she sets up for herself. With a background in sociology, she's hoping to get a job with some liberal organization such as P.M. or The Union for Democratic Action. Has a preference for classical music, painting in oils, and sailing.

Alice Kobbe

A junior transfer with a taste for music, new faces and new places. Has fond recollections of Wyoming, Connecticut horseshows, and sand sailing at Sea Island, Georgia. Gay, and fun-loving, Alice has a passion for embarking upon new experiences—wants to crowd in as much as she possibly can. Looks forward to "a motor trip out West" and travel in Europe.

Elsie Koerner

Good-natured, loquacious Elsie goes in for the wide open spaces with a bang—particularly enthusiastic about outdoor camping and winter sports. Also mad about music and all kinds of dances, especially formals. Is taking chem courses now, intent on working and travelling after college. However, still believes that marriage and a rose covered cottage should take precedent over all other plans.

Adelle Kostellow

Adelle, alias 'Tiger,' is famed for her wide knowledge, nimble wit, and versatility. Her nickname comes from a love of animals in general and tigers in particular—very appropriately is a zoology major. From an artistic family herself, she paints, and dotes on good books and stimulating conversation. Owns a horse named "Pitter-patter" and a turtle called "Soup."

Ada-Marie Kram

Very definite ideas as to what she does and does not like. Ada's interested in zoology and chemistry—may do work in the scientific field after graduation. Is crazy about horses (her ambition is to breed and raise them) and about amateur photography. Also enjoys the theater, football and basketball from the spectator point of view. Her one pet peeve at Barnard: the restrictions on smoking.

Jean Kraus

Good-natured, kind to the point where she's taken advantage of, Jean gives the impression of being happy-go-lucky, but has her earnest side as well. Possesses not one whit of temperament, laughs easily, and gives vent to great enthusiasms. A psych major, she's fond of picturing herself as "practical and realistic" but admits this last with a giggle. Drags unsuspecting friends to Bugs Bunny cartoons.

Genevieve Krause

Always pleasant and sunny-natured, Gene lives in the suburbs and loves it—except for that commuting. Although born on Long Island, she's lived in Montreal for seven years, still speaks French fluently. Fond of her big Russian wolfhound, bicycling early in the morning, and attending the theater. Interested in international relations, and would like to see the world.

Marjorie Kreisel

Having secret designs on a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde personality, Marge dislikes being thought of as sweet and serene—longs to give the impression of being a daring terror. A person with versatile tastes, she swims, hikes, and paints. Also writes profusely, employing a startling array of European heroes and heroines against a Venetian background—is looking forward to making this hobby her vocation.

Winifred Kron

Quick of mind, and happy-go-lucky, Wini's a psych major who intends to practice on her progeny—at least five or six of same. Spends her spare hours chirping away, taking piano lessons, and painting. Exhibits a remarkable ability for producing knitted lecture notes. Has one bone of contention: trolley conductors who stop the car to buy themselves sandwiches whenever she's late to school.

Eleanor Krout

Vital, alive, efficiency personified. Ellie's always busy doing something. Fond of modern dance, the theater, and thoroughly interested in current events and politics. Gets a lot done without making a fuss about it. Generous, kind-hearted, makes friends easily. Likes knitting—humorously confessing that she's knitted on one sock for the past two years. Her ambition: "to make a success of life."

Marilyn Kuhlman

Musically inclined, Marilyn exhibits her versatility in this field as pianist, organist, and choir director. Quick, responsive, she enjoys working with children, music (both popular and classical styles), and dancing. States that she dislikes commuting from Brooklyn, but can't abide people who form opinions about Flatbush without ever having been there.

Ruth Landesman

Liberal-minded, earnest, and sincere. Ruth's active interest in politics undoubtedly foreshadows a career as a good journalist. Reads widely, and claims that she could argue for hours. Fond of music (has just started to take piano lessons "at her time of life"), foreign films, and loves the sea. A girl who likes to do unusual things and keep crazy hours.

Irene Mary Lang

Unconsciously amusing. Irene's always amazed to look up and find people laughing. A religion major who hopes to teach religious history and philosophy in a Western college. Likes hiking and canoeing in the summer, but when the cold weather sets in, her activity is restricted to cooky-munching and bull-sessions. A native of Brooklyn, she sickens at the first syllable of the inevitable trite remark.

Lucille Lawler

Lucy transferred here from Southern Methodist University, where she majored in dramatics. A tall Texan with drawl to match, she's crazy about New York and its varied, exciting opportunities, especially as far as the theater is concerned. Plans on living here after graduation. Has a huge collection of books, and dreams someday of adding to it with one of her own writing.

Anne Layton

Anne has a habit of letting work go till the last minute, not because she's lazy, but rather because she works better under pressure. An easy-going, friendly, generous soul, she has a huge vocabulary—and a talent for mispronouncing it! Reads voraciously, has a great admiration for anyone who can speak more than one language, and is crazy about horses which she hopes to breed some day.

Patricia Lee

Pat's got the theater in her blood—is the fond daughter of a noted stage actor, has done summer stock herself, and during the war served as hostess at the Stage Door Canteen. Right now, she's accumulating flying hours in the hope of getting her own private license. Dancing and eating are her favorite pastimes, although swimming, tennis, and sleeping follow in close order.

Rosemary Lee

Rosemary is the perfect person to be shipwrecked with on a desert isle—helpful, engaging, and easy to get along with. Also noted for her friendly smile and navy blue eyes. A transfer from St. Josephs College in Brooklyn, she takes courses in English literature here. Likes giving parties, camping out, and going swimming. In addition reads a lot as she commutes from Long Island.

Margaret Lerner

Peggy's elfin-like face and graceful manner readily won her new friends when she transferred here after attending Finch Junior College. Is a psychology major who likes most people, enjoys unusual food, and thinks Japanese cooking is marvelous. Gay and capricious, she jangles her five bracelets angrily at those who deride New York.

Yvonne Lewis

Typically an outdoor girl, Yvonne possesses the blooming good looks and spirits that go with it. A bright, energetic person whose vivacity will not be downed despite a daily trip from Englewood, New Jersey. Enjoys all sports, especially hiking; also claims she could dance for hours on end. Is a pre-med major whose vivacity even penetrates the chem lab.

Marjorie Lincoln

Tall, lean Marjorie has spent a lot of time in Washington, D. C. First attended George Washington University there, and later as a Wave was stationed in that city for three years doing radio communications work. An easy-going, optimistic person, she intends to use her history major in some sort of government work. Likes reading historical novels, playing golf, and attending the theater and concerts.

Barbara Lipton

Bobby's a person with an assured manner and a host of well-rounded interests. Doing pre-med work at Barnard, she looks forward to a rural practice, following in the tradition of the country doctor. Is fond of attending Columbia football games, singing, and accompanying herself on the piano. Especially noted for the zany pet names she dreams up for her friends.

Beverly Lister

A warm smile and a quick wit characterize Bev. Talks fast and furiously, and has the energy of a demon. Adores polo, swimming, moonlight ice-skating, and modern dancing. Disturbed by only two things at Barnard: term papers and being mistaken for a freshman. Fondly dreams of owning a cattle ranch in Iowa some day.

Rosalie LoCurcio

Seems a little reserved, but is really very easy to talk with. Basically a friendly person, she condemns the stepped-up pace of New York living which prevents us from knowing others really well. Is tremendously interested in her Latin American studies major—intends to help further hemispheric relations. At home, she plays the piano, romps with her cat Petunia, and fusses over her catalpa tree.

Mary London

Adult, helpful and sympathetic, Mary is sampling the academic life after spending two and a half years doing "fascinating" work at the British Ministry. Gets a lot of fun out of almost anything—enjoys sports, theater-going, music, and the films. Is desirous of doing something constructive and will therefore turn to teaching underprivileged children.

Nathalie Lookstein

Intense, eager, Nat's a dynamic strawberry-blond given to great enthusiasms. Somewhat shy, she avoids crowds, and is inclined to rely upon other people's judgments rather than her own—but is hoping to outgrow this. Interested in politics, and in doing economic research work as her career. Is averse to Southern Democrats, and people who talk about their operations.

Julia Loreuz

New York was one of the main attractions for 'Julie's' transfer from Skidmore to Barnard; in the process, she also switched from a drama major over to English composition. Enjoys keeping up with the theater, and making her own clothes—but isn't domestic. Claims that she lives for her summers spent "way down east" in Maine.

Elizabeth Lowe

A sweet, delightful person, Elizabeth resembles the fairy tale character, Snow White, by virtue of her dark hair, pale complexion and ingenious ways. Takes English literature courses now and has her goal all planned out: will work for exactly two years and then get married. Has lived everywhere from Niagara Falls to Honolulu, but still derives great enjoyment from weekends at Barnard camp.

Louise Lyczak

Deeply interested in Art Student's League activities, this lovely-looking petite commuter from Bronxville also devotes herself to bridge, swimming, and poetry by Elizabeth Barrett Browning. Her quiet charm and poised manner indicate an ideal hostess, but she professes the intention to utilize her government major in a career abroad. Can be found every morning before nine o'clock classes having coffee.

Joan Lyttle

Joan was known as the "girl with really black hair" at Swarthmore, which she attended before transferring here. A math major, she is biding her time until she can go into graduate work in astronomy—has already absorbed the atmosphere of sundials, telescopes, and the like, by working at the Hayden Planetarium, and aspires to professional star-gazing herself.

Marilyn Mackey

Marilyn possesses a Southern accent although she hails from Tacoma, Washington, and has lived there most of her life. Formerly attended the University of Washington, and is at Barnard to continue her English literature major. Volatile and gay, she likes to get into philosophical arguments with other people to hear what they have to say; also enjoys skiing in Mt. Rainier. Dreams of going to Paris.

Jean Macklin

Born in England, Jean took an active part in the war effort—did personnel work for the Western Electric Company after being turned down by the W.A.A.F. Is taking anthropology courses now, hoping to secure a position with a museum. Enjoys reading, walking, and gardening; also loves watching people do ballet or square dancing.

Janet Mahoney

Although born in Bremen, Germany, Janet now restricts her travel to daily commutation from Staten Island. A zoology major, she's premed bent on Columbia P. & S. A sincere, industrious person, she enjoys doing different things, has numerous likes and absolutely no pet peeves. Fond of animals, particularly her very own big and bounding dog.

Jean Mansfield

Jean aims to be a "soldierette of fortune." Casual, whimsical, and completely unpredictable, she has a mind of her own, and is noted for the unusual theories she evolves about everything. Fond of dancing, skating, boating, and traveling; likes bicycling in particular, and would like to organize a group of Barnard girls to go on a hostel trip. Says that the "system" at the South Hall library drives her mad.

Lois Martin

Lois confesses that she's the girl who knits gorgeous argyle socks and chats with friends instead of plugging away at her work. Despite this, she does all right in chem—hopes to go in for it after college. Likes ice-skating, skiing, and listening to Arthur Godfrey. Friendly and easy-going, she admits to but two pet peeves: waiting on lines and wearing hats.

Jane Mastrolly

A sunny Californian, Jane continually travels cross-country between New York and the West. Attended the University of Southern California for two years, and while she adores Barnard, admits that she misses the lively, school spirit of a large university. Right now is taking government-history courses, intending to go on to graduate work in education.

Julia Matlock

Colorado-born Julia is one of New York's most enthusiastic admirers, especially when it comes to theater-going. Has already had some acting experience, including the management of a marionette group, and will turn her talents to the radio field. Was once a member of the advertising staff of the Scarsdale Inquirer. Takes herself out to the baseball park whenever she gets the chance.

Jean Matters

Talented, artistic Jean has to her credit several modern compositions for piano which she hopes to publish, and also has already executed many sculptural pieces. Her pixy grin shows her to be the root of all merriment, although she is occasionally deeply depressed. A transfer from Green Mountain Junior College, she switched from a government major over to the fine arts field.

Susau Matthews

A quiet, friendly girl who's here at Barnard after transferring from a college in the South, Sue gleefully compares this to coming out of jail into the light of day. Plans to utilize her talent for getting along with people by going into personnel work after graduation. Likes knitting, tennis, and playing the piano, and cheerfully despises Monday mornings.

Elaine Mauger

Witty, even-tempered Elaine hankers after a legal career. Has an analytic mind and a definite flair for organization which should serve her well along this line. Her heart's desire is to own a large library of books and records, and to share all these things with someone who is "the perfect gentleman in public, and somewhat of a brute in private."

Amalie Mayer

An entertaining and good-natured person, Amalie is a dyed-in-the-wool James Mason fan—is fascinated by his sinister and menacing performances. In addition to her interest in films, she is reputed to know the city of Baltimore like a book; hopes to travel to California by car in the near future. At school, an American studies major and working on publications claim her attention.

Jane McCown

Jane has had varied experiences in the educational as well as the business fields. Went to Hood College for a while, and then to Katherine Gibbs. From there went to a secretarial job before enlisting as a lieutenant (J.G.) in the Waves. A versatile person who dabbles in a little of everything. Calm and even-tempered, she is looking forward to utilizing her French major in the import-export line.

Jane McInnis

A scintillating personality who's interested in the theater, books, music, tennis, and "just people." A transfer from the University of Connecticut, Jane is specializing in psychology, and plans a future in the Business World. Will read anything, but prefers historical novels. Loves to talk about her brother, a Yale man.

Elizabeth Jean McKown

At Barnard after spending two years at Pine Manor Junior College in Wellesley, Massachusetts, Jean combines a delicate manner, and neat trim appearance to make an excellent impression on people. Has an interest in the subject of history, the theories of which she favors applying to student government; also enjoys taking time out for a set of tennis.

Emily McMurray

Genial, self-contained, and imperturbable, "Amie" has a way of mixing her talk with a slow laugh. A hospitable exponent of the mid-Western creed, she frowns on Easterners who don't like Westerners. Fond of long discussions—usually is able to see both sides of a question, but will stick to her own "viewpoint" anyhow. Enjoys such sports as golf and tennis, and likes to entertain people.

Jean McRoberts

Quiet, cooperative, endowed with a grand sense of humor, Jean came here after attending the Packer Collegiate Institute. A psychology major, she finds people fascinating, and hopes to do personnel work or be a counselor to students. A Glenn Miller fan, she's also fond of dancing, week-ends at West Point, such sports as tennis and ping-pong, and lists gym as the class she won't cut.

Beatrice Meirowitz

Soft-spoken Beatrice is appreciative of Barnard's atmosphere after a two year absence. A New Yorker who adores her city and dislikes those who say that "New York is nice to visit, but it would be terrible to live here." Is studying psychology, but her main ambition at the moment is to spend a summer working abroad a steamship liner. She devours lobsters and volumes by Thomas Wolfe with equal zest.

Kathleen Mero

Kathy came to America the hard way—via India and South America. A pre-med student aiming at P. & S., she hopes to manage a husband and children in addition to an exciting research job. Mad about her chem major, reading, travelling (which she has done quite extensively already), dissecting, sleeping, and eating good food in large quantities. Also a Barnard camp enthusiast.

Jean Meszaros

Loyal, interested, efficient, and intent, Jean seems to find time for everything; demonstrating her exuberance and capability in manifold activities. Right now is taking physics courses, intending to do work as a physicist after school. Fond of all sports, she is especially attracted to roller-skating, and dancing. Further proof of her friendly nature lies in the fact that she failed to list any pet peeves.

Ruth Meyer

Energetic, bustling Ruth is one of those rare people who have the ability to commute from Flushing every day and maintain a lively sense of humor. Keeps her luncheon companions chuckling over their Barnard salads with tales of family, friends, and people who travel on the Flushing Express. Turns serious when filtering precipitates and titrating solutions, and hopes to be a full-fledged chemist.

Cornelia Michaelian

Indefatigable, friendly, and merry—these phases constitute a fitting description of "Cornie." Well-groomed, fond of the theater, ocean swimming, and bridge (her prime ambition is to bid a grand slam, and make it!). Violently opposed to doing anything before ten o'clock in the morning. Eventually wants to settle down and raise a family of three.

Mary Margaret Miller

Mary Margaret's future lies in pediatrics—her present is a continuous whirl of pre-medical studies. Has diverse interests which include tennis, golf (with an eye to riverless, pitless courses), amateur photography, the theater, and bridge. When life gets particularly hectic, she likes to get away from it all by traversing country roads with only her dog for company.

Shirley Miller

A friendly, sincere person, Shirley is noted for her wonderful North Jersey twang, and the neatest handwriting in all of Barnard. A pair of twinkling eyes give her away even when she's trying to be serious. Right now she's majoring in psychology, and has every intention of applying what she learns to the task of raising a large family. Claims to be intensely allergic to cigars and exams.

Gloria Mouterubio

Lively, energetic. Gloria talks rapidly, gestulating expressively. Spent part of her college life first at St. Louis University and later at the University of Mexico, and is interested in history, English literature, and Spanish and Mexican culture. Has a flair for dramatics and interior decorating, with a preference for colorful clothes herself. Also is fond of choir-singing, and swimming in the water carnival.

Ruth Montgomery

Energy personified, Monty is noted for her clear thinking, good sportsmanship and sympathetic nature. A former chemistry major whose mid-stream switch to English literature has left her curled up with a record number of good books. Fond of writing, good conversation in which she frequently indulges, Barnard camp, and long, long walks. Is hoping one day to do graduate work at Yale.

Christene Morris

A classical music fiend, Chris and the piano are inseparable. She loaths people who direct the orchestra from the balcony; loves deep, hopelessly involved philosophical discussions. After music come books, tennis, and horses. Intends to get the most out of life, and hopes to live in France à la Gertrude Stein. Very independent and decided in her views.

Rolande Morris

Unconcerned and typically care-free, Rolande prefers laughing things off and looking at the brighter side of life. Comes here from Bucknell University in Lewisburg, Pennsylvania, and is studying psychology with full intentions of doing experimental work with children as her career. Is usually to be seen at Madison Square Garden watching basketball games, hockey, or the fights.

Eleanor Michaela Morse

Adult, discriminating, and highly perceptive, "Mike's" chief ambition is to have a story of hers published in the Atlantic Monthly. Attended Wilson College and worked in a war plant before coming here. Sensitive and imaginative, she creates poetry as well as prose. Claims that she likes to do crazy things, reads a lot, and listens to music ranging from Bach to Art Tatum.

Barbara Mueser

A chemistry major, Barbara plans to continue her studies abroad in Switzerland, and intends to see the world before settling down to a job and her one-and-only. Music ranks as a special avocation of hers—has played the cello for some time, and is fond of attending concerts. Likes the out-of-doors, canoeing, riding, and people who maintain their geniality.

Winifred Murphy

Sincere, soft-spoken Winifred is here from the University of Rochester, and as a day student misses wearing those blue jeans. A fine arts major, she paints as a hobby, and also writes short fairy tales. Will either teach art, or be a painter, although she definitely prefers the latter. Manages to be cheerful about that long trip from Dobbs Ferry each day.

Martha Muse

An easy casual manner cloaks Martie's intense personality. Possessing a wonderful sense of proportion, she is serious about what seems important to her, lets other matters take care of themselves. Is reluctant about admitting that she collects first editions, and has been to Africa. She is best characterized by her humorous, quizzical grin and friendly spirit.

Gertrude Neumark

Known to friends as "Gert", she's a quiet, soft-spoken chemistry major whose greatest thrill is skiing. Gert acquired her enthusiasm for this sport in the Italian Alps, and hopes to return there when studying abroad. Works sans cesse at being a good chemist, and devours voluminous reports on atomic energy. Patiently attacks tedious math problems; yet often has time for a rousing frolic at Barnard camp.

Joan Norton

An ex-Wave, Joan had to become acclimated to the rush and hurry of college life all over again. Quiet but not shy, she makes friends easily, and what's more, remains steadfast and loyal to them. Originally from Massachusetts, she's been at Pomona College, Penn Manor Junior College, and Katherine Gibbs—then followed two and a half years in the service. Is majoring in psychology.

Mary Eileen O'Brien

Irish to the core, she even worries about the football fortunes of Notre Dame. A sophomore transfer who hails from Midland, Michigan, Mary loves Barnard and being in New York. Also dotes on food of any sort, golf, platform shoes, and movie revivals. Specializing in government courses, she has one great ambition, to wit: she wants to be our ninth woman ambassador.

Gloria Olofson

Enthusiastic about anything and everything, Gloria's energy is boundless. Delights pals with gay accounts of her daily doings, using her hands expressively to illustrate a point. Has a consuming interest in radio, which she may some day combine with her flair for writing. Flatly refuses to discuss the stories she pens, and confounds unsuspecting listeners with a smattering of Swedish.

Yoko Omura

Yoko thinks that the opportunities open to a zoology major are unlimited—will do post-graduate work at Columbia, then launch off into research or a medical career. Has always been interested in plants and animals, and considers that training her albino cat and canary to sleep peacefully together ranks as her greatest achievement. Enjoys ice-skating, riding, swimming, and cooking.

Janet Owen

An English composition major with an inclination towards the drama. Janet admits that her ambitions lie in the field of theatre production. Charmingly casual and amusing, her pet pastime is hunting for interesting old books in second-hand marts. Hates cats and bridge almost as much as the red tape she is constantly running into.

Mary Pace

Mary genuinely enjoys meeting people, a talent which she put to use as a recreational worker overseas with the American Red Cross. Attended Hutchinson Junior College in Kansas as a music major, but is now studying psychology in order to continue her work in the recreational field. Plays the violin, and likes watching spectator sports.

Nancy Parrott

A native of the Smoky Mountains in Tennessee. Nancy is genuinely interested in local folk music and culture. An anthropology major who would like to do field work for some museum when she graduates. Is fond of historical novels, and collects records of folk and jazz music. Quiet and reserved, she is attracted by liberal activities, and fully intends to work for a more democratic South.

Vivette Pascual

A sparkling product of Spanish and French ancestry. Vivette herself was born in Argentina. Has high hopes of travelling to Europe; then, after she has seen "everything," will settle down to the task of combining marriage with a career as a chemist. Can carry on an animated conversation in either French or English, has a talent for oil painting, and enjoys playing the piano.

Patricia Perry

A properly baffling mixture of sophistication and naivety, flavored with a Texan drawl. Consumes coffee and cigarettes endlessly; also a devotee of modern dance. Witty and sarcastic in a mild way, she's taking geology courses at college —intends to go to Latin America after graduation. In the meantime, Pat satisfies herself by concentrating on the non-academic side of collegiate life.

Grace Peters

Constantly amazes new acquaintances by turning out to be sprightly and loquacious beneath that shy and retiring exterior. A girl with many avid interests. Grace enjoys square dancing, stamp collecting, and playing basketball; in addition, is one of those cross-word puzzle addicts. Dislikes climbing numerous stairs to her fourth floor chemistry lab, and is averse to the connotation of "brainy."

Lois Petry

Lois conquered the Business World first before taking a fling at college. Now studies French for the fun of it, and is interested in the philosophy of education, planning to go on to graduate work at Teachers' College. Has a gleeful smile and an easy manner despite the fact that she makes the trek from New Jersey each day. Right now is teaching herself to play the piano.

Agnes Philips

Agreeable "Scotti" makes friends easily, is obliging and helpful. An ex-Wave, she served as an aviation machinist's mate—is now active in veteran affairs. Majors in government, but writes on the side "for my own amazement." Is keeping her fingers crossed for what she terms that ideal job—one that combines travel with working with people, and would permit her to utilize her college work.

Michela Piacenza

Tall, blonde Mickey has numerous ambitions, to wit: she hopes to be a child psychologist, wants to travel in Mexico and China, learn to ski, and take an airplane ride. In the meantime she adds to her collection of miniature liquor bottles, and is a Crosby rooter. Likes knitting, swimming, and is fond of children of all ages.

Betty Pobanz

Placid and even-tempered Betty manages to enjoy the peace and quiet of her own home town in Illinois (population: one hundred) while being equally fascinated by the throngs of eager New Yorkers. An international relations major, she's looking forward to a career as a journalist. Believes that an exchange of information and ideas will serve to promote good will among the peoples of all nations.

Margaret Podell

Serene and sweet-faced, Peggy joined the ranks of Barnardites after spending two years at Finch Junior College. Has done a great deal of travelling across Europe, Mexico and Canada; reads a lot, and can swing a tennis racket and play the piano with equal facility. Well-groomed, feminine in appearance, she's serious about her sociology major.

Helen Pond

Tall and slim, Helen's trademarks are the desperate grasp of her tight mortarboard at Undergrad meetings, and her peals of musical laughter. Keen on sports and extra-curric—groans about too much work and not enough time. Interests include medicine, philosophy and lots of sleep—incompatibles. Is noted for her all-around good sportsmanship.

Rita Rasmussen

Of seafaring stock herself, Rita loves the New England coast and everything connected with it. This includes sailing, swimming and a particular fondness for ocean spray. Drives the neighbors mad by playing recorded music continuously. Other vices: reading mystery stories way into the late hours, and forever losing her gloves.

Olga Ravenelle

Unselfish, modest, and completely unassuming. Olga loves doing things for people, especially enjoys her volunteer hospital work. Finds New York tremendously exciting and spends odd moments writing long, descriptive letters home to her family in Chile. A sociable and conversational person, she also favors the intellectual aspects of life such as going to lectures, hearing classical music.

Nora Ravsky

A graceful and lovely dancer, as well as a charming person, Nora is majoring in fine arts after transferring from Wisconsin University. Has had interpretative work at the Isadora Duncan school, ballet and modern dance elsewhere. Right now, she dotes on French contemporary art, and hopes to go in for stage designing after school. Fond of people who remember names, and keep appointments on time.

Dorothy Reese

An eager government student, Dorothy is well informed on all things political — attends many meetings and centers her activities at Barnard about the Liberal club. An expert photographer with Army experience, she joined the WAC in the hope of being sent abroad but wound up in San Francisco throughout her entire term of service. Still has hopes of getting overseas some day.

Vera Resanovich

A quiet, entertaining person, Vera is ambitious to become a doctor, and go to China. Her numerous hobbies include photography painting, playing softball and reading "intellectual mystery stories." Is distasteful toward taxicabs, clocks that don't agree, and the noisy Broadway trolleys. Claims that she could live on Hershey bars.

Carol Reynolds

Blonde sophisticate with a low voice, a gay laugh, and a determination to follow in the footsteps of Orson Welles; that is: write, produce, direct and act. Has partly fulfilled this ambition by being a radio actress when a child, and by producing and directing her own show over at WKCR. Has catholic tastes when it comes to reading — will digest any and everything in sight.

Rosemary Richmond

Cynical and amusing, "Mo's" philosophy of life permits her to work only when it seems worthwhile. Sleeps all the time, but is very much alive when awake. Loves to go to the movies on school nights just to show the textbooks who's boss. Reads "Terry and the Pirates" avidly, and is mad about football games and automobiles. Dislikes arguing, big cities, and cold weather.

Marian Riegel

Equanimity, generosity, and amiability are qualities which predominate as Marian's leading characteristics. Is a good athlete, especially when it comes to swimming and tennis; and is gifted with a "Yankee constitution," hardly remembering a sick day in her life. Is fond of dancing, and appreciates men who share this fondness. Has one great weakness: can never resist candy bars.

Isabel Riso

A mixture of composure and vivacity, "Iz" tempers her sparkling humor with a quiet dignity. Is both history major and commuter, torn between library work and a train schedule; also interested in the art of writing as a career. Amiable and lively, she's a good mixer—easy to talk to and easy to be with. Loves dancing and arranging social affairs.

Nora Robell

A perfectionist as far as herself is concerned, she's realistic enough not to demand it of others. The attributes Nora looks for are originality, individuality, and impetuosity tinged with common sense. Enjoys puttering around a laboratory and hopes to be an industrial chemist. Cultivates her esthetic side by absorbing large doses of music and literature in her spare hours.

Czara Robertson

An unusual combination of varied attributes—spirited, full of fun, and at the same time modest and unassuming. This diversity is also reflected in her interests and talents, for Czara is an athlete, the possessor of a fine singing voice, and looks forward to being a doctor one day. Very fond of attending concerts and listening to recorded music.

Gloria Robinson

Gloria started out as a pre-med student at Bryn Mawr, took time out to marry an Army doctor and have a little girl of her own, and is now back at college bewailing the difficulties of keeping up with her many labs. Will go on to her M.D. later if she gets the chance, but right now is concentrating on a Barnard degree. Has seen the United States via automobile.

Rae Robinson

Is always called "Faith," which apart from being her middle name is a fairly apt description of her. Sweet, spontaneous, dependable, she has never been known to let anyone down. Has read volumes of history books but longs to get a view of the world close-up. Enjoys a good session of classical music, collecting china dogs, and bursting into song without the slightest provocation.

Barbara Rogers

Bobby is characterized by her dancing brown eyes and an intense intellectual curiosity. Takes zoology courses and reads history books because she is interested in evolution—"history in the long run." Says that 1950 will see her either as an apprentice museum curator, or married and started in on a good-sized family. Enjoys cooking, and is an ardent New Yorker—even likes its weather.

Ann Rolph

Delicate, esthetic-looking Ann has the distinction of being natural at all times. A native Californian, she adores New York, especially its theaters. Is devoted to the moderns in literature and the drama, and has a particular fondness for Sandburg and Cummings. Resides at the Parnassus Club, where she takes her studies and social life in equal doses.

Arlene Rosen

Arlene's the girl with a tiny waist and a knowledge of numerous diets. Takes psych courses, planning to do work in an experimental lab after college. Is constantly doodling at the piano; in addition, writes short stories and verse when she gets the time—having abandoned long, hopelessly involved novels once and for all. Expects to marry soon after June '48.

Hannah Rosenblum

Loquacious, Hannah's an amiable soul easy to talk to and easy to know. Combines this natural gaiety with a conscientious nature—can sleep little and still be "hopping." Serious about her math major and countless plans for the future. Is fun to work with and can talk faster' than anyone in Barnard. Favorite pastime: conversation about men.

Gertrude Rosenstein

Tall, striking, with dark flashing eyes, "Jeri" ought to make good use of the above assets on the stage. Adores Shakespeare and serious drama; also fond of attending the opera—her favorite is "La Bohème." Poised enthusiastic, seldom flustered, she looks forward to traveling after graduation; that is, in addition to a dramatic career.

Elaine Ross

Already married to a doctor, Elaine is a prospective one herself. Formerly attended Columbia and is keeping her fingers crossed in the hope of getting into P & S. Is fond of the water, enjoys boating on the Sound, and creating short stories. Her wide range of interests also extend to etching and doing lithography.

Lita Rothbard

A sophisticate who both looks and acts the part, Lita is known for her eye-catching ensembles and cynical wit. Possesses the rare ability to analyze people, herself included, a talent which she hopes to utilize in writing several lucrative best-sellers. Expresses an aversion to "the simple life." Particularly entranced by the rhumba, Thomas Wolfe, and the entire city of New York.

Elaine Ryan

Soft, fluffy blonde with a meditative glow and Phi Beta Kappa tendencies. Sweet, serious-minded Elaine says she worries too much—would like to stop. Works diligently at her double major, which lets her combine an interest in politics with a love of literature. Likes lively discussions and is grateful to college for making her "think" more.

Marguerite St. John

Poised and flippant of manner, yet possessing "the childish appeal of youth." Maggie's never one to be fazed, is fast and funny on the comeback, and has a good imagination to boot. Commutes from Nyack, "where all the famous people come from," and relates fabulous tales about this habitat. Hates people who call their mother "mummy." Sole ambition: to live to be seventy-three, that's the year 2000.

Joan Sanger

With a decided leaning toward the romantic, Joan suits her Greenwich Village background perfectly. Takes writing courses and has a hidden talent for painting. Energetic, frenetic, and frequently whimsical. Insists that she's lazy, although she hardly looks or acts the part. Is irritated by but one thing at Barnard: student apathy to current affairs.

Patricia Sasseen

Exuberant and easy-going. Pat aims for a country home, and the husband and batch of children that go with it. Likes poetry by Browning and Rupert Brooke, music by Chopin and Strauss, and cherubs by Raphael. A romantic at heart, she's also fond of gardenias, champagne, collecting unusual souvenirs, and rooting for the Dodgers.

Liselotte Schneider

Vienna-born, Lee travelled extensively throughout Europe and South America before coming to the United States. Possesses a vivid personality, and is loyal to her pals, often acting as a morale booster. Converses in five tongues, plays the piano, and is fond of sports and dancing. Is majoring in French at Barnard, aiming for a job with the U.N. before marriage claims her.

Jocelyn Schoen

Pert, cheerful, tiny Jocey aims for, in this order: a career as an M.D., a husband, a large family and a sailboat. Thinks the trouble with women doctors is that they don't have sufficiently well-rounded lives, and she's determined to have one and prove her point. Is a ballet enthusiast, and plays the piano like a virtuoso. A friendly person, she is annoyed by people who rush by and forget to say hello.

Joyce Schubert

Joyce's major in sociology is to aid her to be a good social service worker, as well as a wife and mother of three boys. Spends hours working with children in the Union Settlement House along these lines. A direct and very frank person, she is fond of the sophisticated in style and in clothes—likes svelte black dresses and cashmere sweaters especially. Devotes her spare time to collecting miniatures.

Ray Schwab

A red-headed Memphis belle, with a gorgeous drawl and a taste for politics on the liberal side of the fence. Decided in her interests and activities, yet easy to get along with. Refusing to be discouraged by her many, trying baby jobs. Ray plans on raising a large family of her own. Will do this last in addition to being a journalist.

Marilyn Schwartz

Short, high-voiced, and feminine, Marilyn is intent on specializing in scientific writing—but looks curvacious even in a smock. Has developed an enviable technique for cramming—does nothing until the eleventh hour and still comes out on top. Is famed for those delightful stories about Georgia, where her innumerable relatives live.

Kathryn Schwindt

One of the lucky girls who spent her junior year studying in Switzerland. Kay will climax this with marriage as soon as she returns to the U.S. Vivacious and friendly, with an interest in people and the arts. Has done summer stock, but is attracted to music and literature in addition to the Thespian life. Plays the piano, and could listen to classical music on the radio for hours.

Joyce Sentner

A much-travelled, vital person with a zest for life and people in general. Has a passion for writing, and for discussions with an eye out for her prospective great American novel. Sensitive and perceptive—definitely a dreamer, and somewhat of an idealist. Likes analyzing situations and penetrating into motives. Favors New York over the many places she has visited.

Helen Serrell

A girl with a talent for doing the unexpected and startling her friends—says she'll do anything once. Lives on a Colorado ranch and loves to ride her horse which she named "Nike" after Greek Games '46. Right now she's an English-speech major, with an eye to radio drama and production. Joins in on Hewitt bull sessions, and reads murder mysteries avidly, praising Perry Mason to the heights.

Louise Shaw

A native New Yorker. Louise first attended Fisk University in Nashville before coming to Barnard. Enthusiastic over her sociology major, and is planning to seek a job in the children's field of social work when she graduates. Likes watching pro baseball and football games, enjoys simply prepared foods, and is a fiend when it comes to playing ping-pong.

Joan Sheer

Pretty and dimpled, Joan dispels all notions about scatter-brained blondes. She's a brilliant math major who excels in many fields, one of which she hopes will be marriage. Bears a striking resemblance to an Easter bunny, and has an infectious giggle which usually escapes during lunch hour. Relaxed and easy-going, she has no trouble making friends.

Dolores Sheldon

A busy, conscientious person who manages to take everything in her stride, Dolores is fond of people—enjoys all sorts of social activities. Her ambition is to be a successful medico and have four children on the side. Hates luke-warm milk and authors who wait 'til the middle of the book to get interesting. Pet passions: music, dancing, green apples, and ripe olives.

Mary Sherburn

"Meg's" a citizen of Vermont who likes New York in the wintertime, but in the summer will definitely take her old home state. Dotes on dorm bull-sessions and "practically everything about Barnard." Is a French major who naturally longs to visit France. Claims she adores swimming, and would spend the entire summer sunbathing if she had the time.

Rose Shermer

Sociable, also serene and hard-working, Rose aims at a Ph. D. in bacteriology, but dabbles in languages and philosophy on the side. Will combine this career in science with marriage. Gets along with people easily, and possesses the talent for making them feel at home at all times. Somewhat serious-minded, her even temper can only be roused by a political discussion.

Margaret Shipman

Humorous, sociable "Targie" loves having thousands of people visit her in her room at the dorms. Says she is gullible and not at all business like, yet looks forward to a career in medical research. Drinks tea by the hour (a Barnard indoctrination), and reads everything from murder stories to Shakespeare. Likes to laugh and is fond of talk-fests where everyone yells.

Annette Silverstein

Deliberate as to her own movements, Annette seeks to understand what controls peoples' actions. A combination philosophy and psychology major, she is also musically inclined. Plays the piano and violin, has done conducting, and also organized a chamber music group for WKCR. Addicted to long discussions and Wednesday afternoon tea in the College Parlor. Also fond of rhumbas.

Elizabeth Simon

Betty's the girl with a bent for international relations who wants to do some reconstruction work in Germany because she loves the language, culture and music of that country. Adores week-end motor trips, swimming, and reading history books; also qualifies as an admirer of the classics, and would like to learn to play the harpsichord. Will spend her post-Barnard year getting her M.A. at Columbia.

Mary Simmons

A transfer from St. Lawrence University, Mary is intent on continuing her sociology major here. After school is over, will attend the New York School of Social Work, or perhaps do social work in Europe. Sincere, fun to be with, she enjoys participating in all winter and summer sports, but for plain relaxation prefers music and the ballet. Devotes her spare hours to collecting Degas ballet prints.

Jean Skinner

A tiny person with a low, husky voice, Jean hails from Yonkers. Music and politics vie for her attention—is a history-government major, and is also passionately interested in music. Enjoys swimming, tennis, and driving her car. Alert, wise-cracking, she plans on teaching history in some high school—her good looks and lively manner are bound to keep the students awake.

Priscilla Slesinger

Gay, adventurous and changeable, "Pat's" forever exploring the unknown—says she will try anything once. Is interested in Spanish culture and food; plans on spending more time in Mexico. Has definite ideas for the future, intending to see as much of the world as she possibly can. She possesses a special fondness for football games, and summers in California.

Betty Ann Smith

A tall, attractive transfer from Mary Washington College of the University of Virginia, she loves Barnard and her government major here—hopes to do personnel work in some phase of the government. Betty Ann also models occasionally for her illustrator father, and spends a great deal of time on her hobbies of sports, dancing, music, and languages.

Virginia Snyder

A native of Grand Rapids, Michigan, and a transfer from Michigan State College, Virginia is still discovering New York and Barnard. Has a deep interest in mathematics and in the subject of international relations. Also is a swimming star of no mean ability, and recalls with fondness her riding days at the U.S. Cavalry Post at Michigan State.

Brigitta Sorer

A decided, somewhat serious-minded person, "Brig" likes to get away from it all by taking long, solitary walks. Before coming to the U.S., she used to spend winters in Vienna, summers in the Alps—still misses those summers. Has a passion for India, little children, and animals of all sizes and species. Also interested in medieval history, German literature, and English poetry.

Dorothy Spatz

Dot bustles about most efficiently, fascinating her friends with her keen wit and business-like attitude. Eagerly throws herself headlong into all fields of psychology, but is narrowing down to work along clinical or abnormal lines. A devoted advocate of camp life, she not only is a good organizer, but also performs miracles when it comes to housekeeping and cooking.

Patricia Spinning

Tiny, somewhat shy and reserved, yet fully co-operative and kind-hearted. Pat's a transfer from the Sacred Heart College in Puerto Rico. Lived in Paris for thirteen years before coming to America and Puerto Rico, yet speaks English without the trace of an accent. Finds Barnard hard work, but the people interesting. Enjoys spending Friday afternoons in Carnegie Hall.

Elizabeth Stadulis

Liz's ambition to work towards international co-operation results from a sincere effort to "understand the other fellow." Takes her music seriously: sings and composes four part chorales herself. Expresses a liking for Persian prints, large families, and roller skating. Has her creative side as well: sketches, writes plays and short stories, and enjoys concocting culinary surprises.

Emily Steinbrecher Stage

Quick, witty, vivacious commuter from Brooklyn, Emily is famous for her ultra-short feather cut, and the amusing cartoons that illustrate her notes. Although a physics major, she also espouses the liberal arts tradition, as witness her taste for music, art and the theater. Her future plans revolve around engineering and home-making with her husband, Jess.

Marjorie Steele

Humorous, unpredictable, Marge has unbounded enthusiasm for cramming as much as she can into the shortest possible time. Gay, with a low, wise-cracking voice, she has a serious side too—as witness her fondness for Thomas Wolfe, Beethoven, and her major in philosophy. Likes writing, playing the piano, and "vacationing" at Cornell.

Susan Steketee

A confirmed optimist who makes life brighter for her pals when they get down in the dumps. Carefree, whistling, known for her self-inflicted humor and characteristic attire of kneepants, "Stek" has an esthetic side, though, which comes out in her preference for Hardy, Shelley and Brahms. Violently dislikes the three R's—rules, restrictions and regulations.

Muriel Stevenson

From Cleveland, Ohio, Muriel finds New York even more interesting than she ever dreamed it would be. Is doing psych work now, but plans on studying home economics at Teachers' College and then going on to teach that subject herself. A person with an amazing range of talents and tastes she loves classical music, plays the clarinet, cooks, sews, designs her own clothes, rides, and goes in for ice-skating.

Lois Stone

Lois has a talent for accomplishing things quietly—does her work unobtrusively without calling attention to herself. Appreciates the simplicity that usually means perfection in people, art, or fashion. Engaging, helpful, hates bothering people, never causes any trouble. Expert when it comes to doing such handiwork as sewing and knitting.

Harriet Stuessi

Typical of Harriet's sympathetic nature is the fact that her room in the dorms is a regular congregating place. Headed for a career, she's an English literature major because she thinks it gives one a good classical background. An intriguing person with an air of mystery about her, she is fond of giving tea parties at two o'clock in the morning and is famed for her ability to go without sleep.

Mary Swain

A slender, well-groomed redhead, Mary transferred here from Hollins College in Virginia. Has a quiet, composed air, and is scarcely ever flustered. A psychology major whose current ambition is to begin nurses' training at Johns Hopkins. For sports, she'll choose swimming or ping-pong; also loves dancing, and is easily coaxed into a bridge game.

Anne Swift

Another potential rolling stone, "Pete" likes strange people and places—naturally wants to travel. Crazy about Princeton and her family's summer home in Vermont—can't find enough favorable adjectives to describe both places. Loves square dances (and knows how to call them); also plays the flute, likes swimming and attending the opera. Is the type of person who will do anything on a dare.

Barbara Szafranski

Bobby spent her early years in Poland—is a walking mine of information about Polish history, geography, and vital statistics. Has a grand perspective on life, and even laughs easily at her own faux pas. A mixture of modesty, charm and gaiety, she plans on a career in chemistry. Is fond of music in general. Mozart and fellow countryman. Chopin, in particular.

Sema Ann Tanzer

Intent on charting her way into the world as a crack newspaperwoman, Sema Ann says that literature is her ruling passion. Has equally wide tastes in music, ranging all the way from Beethoven to Count Basie. When not up in the library creating copy for her many English composition courses, she's to be found either on a tennis court, or dashing off to see a Broadway play.

Anne Taylor

Known as "Tay" about the campus, she has a particular fondness for the West—this includes ranch life, rodeos, and cowboy songs. Versatile, humorous, she's a coffee drinker supreme, deviser of diets, and a sports-lover. Is doing work in psychology at present but hasn't quite decided on the future—definitely sure, however, that she wants a husband and family to figure importantly.

Dorothy Ramoua Thelauder

Mona has the distinction of always knowing what the prof is talking about, although she doesn't bother much with studying. Switched her major from psychology to French after spending a summer at the Laval University in Canada. At all times is well protected against the elements by scarf, gloves, overshoes, and what-have-you. Enjoys cooking, reading The New Yorker.

Irene Theophanis

Sweet-faced Irene is a fine arts devotee who's concentrating on chem courses right now. Aspires to be a research chemist, and also paint the American scene while travelling. Aside from doing water colors and sketching, she is fond of sailing (which she learned at Cape Cod), the theater, and concerts. Likes foreign languages, and hopes to satisfy her interest in archaeology and ancient history.

Erdmuthe Tillich

Friendly, round-eyed "Mutie" has done a good deal of traveling and is studying psychology as background for her writing career. Although she hasn't decided which branch of literature to specialize in, she believes that studying human nature will help her in her field. Remembered for her role as Greek Games priestess in '45, she is particularly fond of athletics and music.

Grace Tobler

"Toby" "escaped" from a Southern school before coming to Barnard, and is exceptionally enthusiastic about the latter. Likes dorm life, the profs, the girls, but not roommates who stay up all night! Sunny, vivacious, she has an amazing pair of lungs, which she exercises at football rallies and by singing in the bathtub. Is really quite ambitious, to wit: plans to take her M.A. in English and get married.

Ruth Trencher

Known in the dorms as "Trench," she gets enthusiastic when it comes to dating, driving, or eating eclairs. Is a history major with a deep admiration and respect for Mr. Williamson. Even-tempered, sincere, thinks that playing the piano and "jitterbugging" are great fun. Dislikes commuting, and deplores Sunday afternoon studying—"so close to Monday."

Genevieve Trevor

Slightly old-fashioned in the "modern way," Lawrie will be happy with a professor husband, a home in the country, and the family that goes with it. Gracious and friendly, she likes people, is a good judge of human nature; particularly prejudiced in favor of all things Barnard. Has a talent for being in at least five places at the same time—all this and efficiency too! Shines at poster-making and athletics.

Marjorie Trieper

An attractive, sweet-looking person whose brilliant strawberry-blonde hair seems to belie her earnest manner. Ruefully confesses that her goal is the traditional one—marriage and a family—but would also like to travel a great deal. Enjoys football games and doing things on the spur of the moment; in addition, dotes on beautiful china. Allergic to hats and pretentious people.

Natalia Troncoso

Friendly, good-natured Natalia lived in the dorms and loved it—is delighted at meeting so many different kinds of people this way. An enthusiastic chemistry major, she still has a secret ambition—to sing with the Fred Waring Glee Club. Admits to being sentimental, and constantly sings or hums as she works. Claims that rain is her one bugaboo—it dampens her spirits.

Roberta Tunick

Typically collegiate looking—long, tawny hair, friendly brown eyes, and baggy sweaters. Famous for her role as Greek Games charioteer in '45 and '46. Energetic and athletic, Bobby favors swimming, sailing, and camping. Also finds time for sketching and music. Looks forward to marriage plus a career in applied psychology.

Ann Ruth Turkel

Is an enthusiastic pre-med student whose taste for medicine stems from her doctor father. Supplies classmates with amusing articles from medical journals. Her second love is music, but time has a habit of slipping away too quickly for her to devote enough of it to those black and white piano keys. Emphatically demands to be called "Ann Ruth" and dislikes people who call her by half her name.

Rosemary Ullman

Never moody, dependable at all times, Rosemary likes working with people—can handle responsibility. Says her pet peeve is New York City, 'cause its impersonality depresses her. Is majoring in zoology, planning on a dual career of medicine and marriage. Hopes to see the rest of the U. S. before finally settling down along the coast of Maine. Claims that she actually likes commuting.

Hilma Van Heek

Hilma is noted for her sympathetic nature and friendly manner: you start out talking about her and invariably wind up discussing yourself. Is majoring in psych. with marriage, home and children as first choice for a career, and personnel work coming off second best. Likes light classical music, reading, and taking her ferry boat ride from the Palisades, New Jersey, to school each day.

Marian Vans-Agnew

Although she has travelled through England, France, and Switzerland, "Van" has a special place in her heart for New York, and for West Point proms. Plans on marriage and doing medical social work. Has a passion for British traditions, walks in the country, and the pounding of the surf. Fond of riding and horses, but prefers taxis.

Elva Vazquez

Sleek black hair, ultra-smart attire, and a penchant for keeping her friends laughing all add up to an apt description of Elva. Definitely fashion conscious, she designs and makes all her own clothes—constantly has her nose buried in the latest Vogue. Would like to combine her Spanish major and interest in radio by embarking upon a career in Pan-American radio production.

Rosa Velasco

A senorita from Puerto Rico who likes nothing better than the life of an easy-going traveller, seeing and doing only what fancy dictates. Finds New York wholly fascinating and loves exploring it. Also fond of the ballet, George Bernard Shaw, and classical music. Is majoring in philosophy here at school.

Marilyn Vogel

A Spanish major, Marilyn would like to do something worthwhile with her studies before settling down to raising a family. A sincere, gracious person, the first thing you notice about her is that pair of lovely dimples. Her tastes include a fondness for playing the piano, sketching, and reading. Dislikes intolerance and insincerity in people.

Betty Wall

Obliging and good-natured, Betty is fond of exciting people and determined not to get into a rut herself. Lives along without planning ahead or looking back. Says she is ambitious, but this includes looking out for the other fellow also. Likes music by Bach, group harmony in singing; in addition, is good at picture arrangements.

Helene Wall

Known for her twinkling eyes, her merry grin, and her infectious giggle. When it comes to joining in on the fun, Helene has energy enough—still maintains that she could sleep ad infinitum, and often does! Is seldom serious, yet nevertheless possesses a quick, analytic mind which should be an asset when she embarks upon a legal career. Fiercely proud of her six nieces and nephews.

Claire Webber

A chemistry major who can converse more ably about English literature than those who make it their specialty. Sweet and soft-spoken, Claire adores Shelley and Keats; spends her spare moments studying their works, playing the violin, and listening to good music. As for the future, she plans to do research work for the Du Pont people. Has no pet peeves.

Janet Wessling

Cheerful, energetic, always on the go. Jan came to Barnard after spending her freshman year at William and Mary. Likes it here, but has to admit that her favorite town is Williamsburg, Virginia. Calls her chief hobby West Point, and is a football enthusiast. Feminine, imperturbable, and utterly alive, she plans to go in for government work—if she doesn't get her MRS degree first!

Sheila Whitestone

Quick-moving, sparkling Sheila is a regular social butterfly—loves being with people, and has the capacity to pass on her own high spirits to others. A person who is addicted to excitement, she enlivens up any situation. Refuses to worry over what will happen in the future, for, as she says, eventually it will turn out all right anyhow. Loves to dance, and is passionately fond of New York.

Georgia Wight

The possessor of a pair of grey-green eyes that are open to what is going on about her, Georgia is a clear-headed and jocund companion. Hopes to travel extensively and then settle down with lots of land (preferably in Connecticut) and lots of children. A sociology major, she finds the field of child welfare work both "fascinating and important."

Shirley Ellen Wilcox

Breezy, devil-may-care, thinks along tailored lines. Shirley's the proud owner of four dogs, and swears that each one has a different personality. Loves football games, social gatherings, and sleeping for hours on end. Majoring in foreign area studies, she hopes to teach history for a while after graduation. Greatest ambition: to go to England.

Gloria Williams

Gloria is characterized by her sophisticated smile and an attractive aloofness. Married to an Annapolis man, she bewails the fact that the Navy keeps them apart, spends most of her spare time writing letters to her husband. Hails from Boise, Idaho, and is taking English composition courses here. Knows North America well: has visited every state and capitol in the United States.

Lois Williams

While her friends call Lois "calm, cool, and serene," she insists that she's always in a hurry, always rushing about. Has varied interests and is never bored. Is taking chemistry courses and may make a career of it, but is also fond of drawing portraits and would like to go to art school. Both musically and athletically inclined, she plays the piano, swims, and swings a mean racquet at tennis.

Julia Willvonseder

Easy-going, friendly, Julia attracts people to her instantly. Inherits a certain sparkle and an interest in Spanish culture from her Spanish mother, and hopes to utilize this interest in a career in the import-export business. A transfer from Syracuse University, she commutes from Westchester each day, and actually enjoys doing it! Anticipates a visit to the notorious Lion's Den someday.

Mary Wilson

Although she would like to be tagged "Willie," people persist in calling her "Mary" because its simplicity suits her. Always in a flurry of activity, she nevertheless gets things done sooner, perhaps, than those "cool, calm and collected" persons she admires. Takes history courses and will probably embark upon a career. Collects match-covers as a hobby.

Margaret Wittmer

Peggy flies through the air with the greatest of ease—even has her pilot's license. Whimsical and baffling, with a gentle humor, she's noted for her penetrating observation. Is remarkably favored in that everything she attempts turns out well. Prefers leather in any form—compacts, belts, cigarette cases—and lowheeled shoes. Has an amazing collection of the latter.

Helenmae Wolfert

Easygoing "Bud" declares that philosophy is her secret love, although she's concentrating on American studies in her school work. Characterized by her gay humor and a Town and Country look, she admits to being frankly sentimental—reads the French Romanticists, and dotes on compositions for the piano by Chopin and Carmichael. Also favors attending football games and the theater.

Janet Wright

A person with artistic tastes, Janet lists music, dramatics, and writing as her chief interests. This last she intends to make her career, and will enter either the magazine or newspaper fields. Transferred here from the Sophie Newcomb College of Tulane University way down yonder in New Orleans. Plays the piano quite well, and gets a bang out of amateur theatricals.

Vivian Wyman

A vital personality because of her interest in what goes on about her. "Viv" possesses an analytical, penetrating mind as well as a sympathetic, affectionate nature. Promoted her interest in international relations by spending her junior year at Geneva, and eventually plans to go into government work and writing. She combines a flair for the dramatic, plus interest in symphonic music.

Anne Zabriskie

Reticent about her own accomplishments. "Zab's" friends are eager press agents, lauding her musical compositions to the skies. Spent her freshman year at Vassar as a music major, but likes Barnard and the philosophy department much better. Wants to satisfy her globe-trotting ambitions, but will always return home to New York.

Elizabeth Zlotsky

Good-humored and fun-loving, yet a serious thinker. Devotes much of her time to AYD, emphasizing the importance of a strong and progressive student movement. Very much interested in folk dancing and folk music. Betty believes that not enough Americans realize the great potentialities of American folk art. An economics and government major who devotes her time to liberal activities.

Our social world--where life is a whirl of dances and dutes,
and where activities range from informal Wednesday afternoon teas to ultra-formal Junior Prom--where every month highlights a different event
--coffee dunces, winter or spring formal,
Christmas celebrations, Junior Show. But deeper, less remote than any of these, social life at Burnard means, simply, meeting friends, making friends. It includes a casual smoke in the "smoker" with a chum, or a quiet talk in the Junyle. It means engaging, in a pleasant and lasting way, in the human relationships
that, as the Deen realizes,
are so important for our future.

Frosh-Junior tea, and a chance to become further acquainted with our sister class.

FRESHMAN DAY

Junior Prom

"Reflections" . . . of filmy gowns and billowing skirts, lilting songs and dancing feet . . . an aura of sophistication and light-heartedness . . . a babble of conversation and low laughter . . . rainbowing colors of gowns and corsages mirrored in the pale pastel decor of the Grand Ballroom and adjoining suite of the Savoy Plaza, where the gaiety and glamour of Junior Prom was reflected.

And in the small hours of morning, nostalgic reflections of another kind, our special song, the dances, the one and only of the moment.

Junior Show

C'est la vie! Barnard's, of course. Junior Show, this year, captured the esprit of life at Barnard, foibles, follies and frolics. Second since the war, Junior Show was a mad, merry affair that took the audience on a three-hour jaunt from Barnard Hall to Brooks to Riverside then trans-atlantic to France. Familiar scenes unraveled: Barnard's ubiquitous Student Male, Health Booth hawking yogurt and green, leafy vegetables with healthy abandon, angel robes floating through the Freshman Physic, dorm chit-chat and bridge with a masculine fifth hand! Dialogue with many subtleties varied from halting-stumbling French to swift humorous repartee to typical "Barnardese." The rampant vocal chords proclaimed: We're Unhealthy, or confessed, You Can't Go to College with a Heart, or digressed to parody radio in Jake.

Class Luncheon

Exams taken, school finished for the year, we relax at our final social function as sophomores—the class luncheon at the Men's Faculty Club. And as the history of our class is read, we laugh together as our historian, Sue Steketee, recalls the hoop knocked over in Greek Games, or the vitality with which we nominated half the class for junior president. We enjoy small talk, conviviality and social good feeling.

Now it can be told.

School is never far away—even at a dance.

Spring Fever

In the spring Barnard's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of—Spring Formal.

Harbingers of spring — Barnard style.

Harvest Hop, formal in fantasy under AA's auspices, highlights fall activities.

Harvest Hop

Coffee dance informals added stimulation to our social life.

Christmas

Christmas time—and Barnard throws a Snowball! With snowdrops dropping from a crepe-paper sky and decorations of white and silver to carry out its theme, Christmas formal was one of the most successful and elaborate of this year's dances. Centers of interest were: the United Nations secretaries invited to the dance, the "cocktail lounge" in Brooks Parlor, the roaring yule log fire and the Christmas tree in the Conference Room, the brandy egg-nog. With this festive spirit and a capacity crowd, Christmas dance was a gala frolic.

Going Places

"Going places"—apt expression for our social life. Barnard's campus may be small, but there are always places to which we go—and Jake is the hub from which our spokes extend. In a way, Barnard's social life has its center on Jake. Here sneakered feet trot alongside high-heeled slippers and languid loafers. Here we dash up to Mrs. Johns and breathlessly demand, "Mail!", or transact business with Mrs. English or with Miss Erskine in the public relations office. Here, we meet, to amble down the walk, past Brooks, out the green gate, and continue our way in what is still Barnard's social world! For just as "New York is Barnard's laboratory", it is all part of our social world as well. We "go places"—perhaps to Tilson's or to the Lion's Den; perhaps to a Frat House brawl, or only to Chock Full of Nuts; or we may go to a concert arranged through the Social Affairs Office, or as far as the Savoy for our Junior Prom. We "tap" Columbia's "reserve" of 14,000 veterans for our dances, and call upon the city's celebrities to grace our meetings and social functions. But in the end we come back to Barnard Hall, back to Jake, for that is still the "social center" of the college—and we continue our social life within our own walls, knowing we can always "expand" our social world whenever we so please!

Mrs. Johns

Miss Erskine and Russet

Jake

Red celluloid strips beckoning us to student mail . . . posters and blackboard calling us to class and club meetings . . . booths and cake sales asking our support for Wigs and Cues or the term drive . . . Social Affairs Bulletin Board announcing outside music and art events . . . This is Jake with its very special atmosphere—of pleasant bustle and hurry—that we know so well.

Social Affairs Bulletin strewn with opera, lecture and theatre news.

BARNARD'S "smaller patterning" of the world holds true in religion, too—with many faiths and creeds represented on its campus. Catholic, Protestant and Jewish clubs provide religious discussion and action for students.

UNITY in diversity—the ideal in the religious as in other fields—is achieved on our campus through the central coordination of UCA and Interfaith, through the convivial buffet suppers and informal open house, through the centralizing focus on Chapel and Earl Hall religious centers.

Newman Club officers plan for their next meeting.

Episcopal Club tea in the Conference Room.

Barnard UCA has an informal chat.

Lutheran Club meets in the College Parlor.

Menorah Open House in Earl Hall's Dodge Room.

We saw it happen . . . .

our world at peace . . . . Men!

Frat House—scene of gay diversion, where refreshments are served with swizzle sticks.

Lion's Den—where the Lion's roar turns into a guffaw.

Chock-full "coffee and—" before, between and after class.

Tilson's—"Meet you for a coke!"

Music and magazines mean rest and relaxation.

Boy meets girl in Brooks.

Dorm Life

The "Dorms" . . . Home to so many of us, and more homelike now than ever before . . . close harmony or Chopin from the Music Room . . . the eternal vigil before the Post Office . . . evenings in the "Beau Parlors" . . . Scotty's "I'm sorry, but it's twelve o'clock."

Mail Call.

BOOKS INSTEAD OF ANSWERS

From those of us who looked for your books to those of you who understood the difficulties in getting many of them, our thanks for your patience. But with the new year the answers "out of stock," "out of print," and "no date" won't be heard quite so often. We hope that you'll be in often to check over new stocks of texts, of fiction, biography, poetry and miscellaneous technical and critical works in the sciences and the humanities.
